VOL. LXXVIII. CENTRE HALL, PA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1905. NO. 45

AGAINST CONTINUOUS PUBLIC OFFICE HOLDING.

The selection of Mr. Bailey over Mr. Miller for the office of Commissioner demonstrates emphatically that the voters in Centre county are against continuous public office holding no matter how important or unimportant the office. It was the undoing of C. L Gramley, last June; the same cause helped roll up a majority, a year ago, against Judge Love. The lesson is one that office seekers in the future may profit by if they will.

The counties of Clinton and Mifflin also registered their protest against having continuous hold on the public teat. In the former the candidate for prothonotary on the Republican ticket was up for the sixth time for that office; in the latter county, the present sheriff, also a Republican, was a candidate for the office of county treasurer. There are many other similar instances throughout the state where candidates failed to secure the united support of their party because of the desire on the part of the individual to hold continuous office.

At first thought one would be led to believe that an efficient official should be entitled to re-election so long as he properly conducts himself and performs lawfully his official duties. There is argument in that, but that is all. Continuous office holding is not democratic.

Because a man, sometimes, often by mere chance, is elected to a public office is no reason why he should be continued there indefinitely. Both the great parties recognize this when it comes to the important offices of the state and nation. There is just as much benefit to be derived if the rule is applied to the county, township and borough offices.

The verdict of the people given at the polls may be trusted as being true, and no point in local politics has been more plainly set forth during the past year than that there is such a thing as a limit to office holding.

THE EXTRA SESSION.

When Governor Pennypacker is moved to do right things "The Centre Reporter" does not care to inquire too curiously as to his motive. He has called for an extra session of the Legislature—

(1) To provide for the consolidation of contiguous cities.

(2) To better provide for the more provident use of the surplus moneys of the State and to end the Quay system of commerce between the banks and political leaders.

(3) To reapportion the State int Senatorial and Representative districts.

(4) To provide for personal registration

(5) To repeal the ripper.

(6) To limit the amount paid by the State for the erection of county bridges.

(7) To abolish fees in the offices of the Secretary of the Commonwealth and Insurance Commissioner.

All of these subjects of proposed legislation are proper; four of them are urgent. The purgation of the State Treasury, the reapportionment of the assembly districts, personal registration, and the repeal of the ripper constitute a body of important work which will require months of painstaking consideration. A strange omission in the program of reform is the Governor's neglect to ask for the amendment of our complicated election laws.

But how can the Governor expect to procure such beneficent changes in the laws as he recommends from probably the most incapable and corrupt Legislature ever assembled in the State's history? It may be that with the foot of the Commonwealth bearing its full weight on their necks the rascals in their fright will do all the Governor asks. Called together, as they are, to answer for and expiate sins of their own commission, they may do more than would a succeeding Legislature composed of men whose necks were not already in the halter. This is the most comfortable view possible.

The new situation should command the instant attention of the friends of reform. They should forget the Pennypacker of yesterday and rally behind the Pennypacker of today. Take him at his word. When things are at their worst any change is for the better.

THE COMMISSIONERS' CLERK.

It is too early to discuss the matter in detail, but when the time comes, the Democratic Commissioners should make their selection from among the farmer's sons. That is good sense, and good sense is good politics.

It is unfortunate that the newly elected State Treasurer cannot take control of the office for six months. The people would like to have the lid lifted right now.

The result of the election may be explained, but it can't be changed.

EXTRA SESSION OF LEGISLATURE

Called to Meet Monday, January 15, 1906, to Consider Legislature on Seven Topics.

Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker issued a proclamation dated Saturday, calling the Legislature in extra session, Monday, January 15th, to consider the following seven subjects:

First—To enable contiguous cities in the same counties to be united in one municipality, in order that the people may avoid the unnecessary burdens of maintaining separate city governments.

Second—To increase the interest paid by banks, trust companies and similar institutions for the use of State moneys; to impose proper limitations upon the amount of such moneys to be held by each of such institutions; to make it a misdemeanor to pay or receive, to offer or request any money or valuable thing or promise for the use of such moneys other than the interest payable to the State; and to adopt such other measures as may be necessary for the protection of the public moneys.

Third—To reapportion the State into Senatorial and Representative districts.

Fourth—To provide for the personal registration of voters.

Fifth—To provide for the government of cities of the first class and the proper distribution of the power exercised by such municipalities.

Sixth—To designate the amount to be expended each year in the erection of county bridges, and to take such other measures in regard to them as safety may require.

Seventh—To abolish fees in the offices of the Secretary of the Commonwealth and the Insurance Commissioner.

The New United Evangelical church at Harters, will be dedicated November 26th. Rev. Cox, of Bellefonte, and Rev. D. A. Artman, of Mifflin, are expected to be present and take part in the services.

The Reedsville correspondent to the Lewistown Democrat and Sentinel has this to say: The residence of Mrs. Alexander McNitt on Main street will be when completed, a mansion of beauty, and modern design, and a conspicuous ornamentation to our thriving town.

The "Winter Excursion Book."

The "Winter Excursion Book," just issued by the Passenger Department of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, is one of the finest resort books ever gotten out by any railroad company It is a comprehensive manual of the leading Winter resorts of the entire United States, containing one hundred and sixty-eight pages of interesting reading matter, and profusely illustrated with half-tone engravings. One may obtain full information in reference to wintering places, routes and rates thereto. The book is bound in an artistic cover, chaste in design and harmonious in color. This valuable work may be obtained free of charge at the principal ticket offices of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, or will be sent, postpaid, upon application to Geo. W. Boyd, General Passenger Agent, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

M. Witte is now engaged in trying to negotiate a second peace treaty, this time with the Russian people.

If Ohio's Pattison is a duplicate of Pennsylvania's honored ex-Governor by that name, that state has great reason to rejoice over his election to the gubernatorial chair.

It has been decided that the last State law dealing with automobile licenses is the only law. Since it was passed by the late Legislature it might be well to give it some investigation.

It is the opinion of Governor Pennypacker that the result was brought about by the newspapers, and the newspapers are much better satisfied with the part they took than if they had taken the part the Governor took.

Wonder whether Mr. Lincoln Swartz will risk his reputation further by saying that Dr. White will not personally take charge of the treasurer's office, after he has received the oath of office.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS.

Mrs. Sarah Durst has been ill during the past week.

John G. Emerick expects to spend the winter at Wallaceton, Clearfield county.

The deer hunting season began Wednesday, and will continue until the end of November.

The Farmers Institute will be held at Philipsburg, November 28th and 29th.

Thomas G. Wilson brought home the first wild turkey killed by Centre Hall hunters. It was a fine bird.

P. J. Kelley, of Lilly, has purchased the City Hotel at Tyrone, the consideration being $35,000, and taken possession of the same.

At this season of the year labor is usually plentiful, but about Centre Hall it is difficult to secure help of any kind for farm or other work.

The principal of the Philipsburg High School, Prof. D. H. Robbins, has resigned. He will go to Phoenixville and become principal of the schools in that place.

For killing a one hundred pound bear on Sunday, John Dietrick, of Ferney, was fined $25 by 'Squire Rossler, of Mill Hall. The bear skin was also confiscated and sent to the State Game Commission for disposition.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Brown, of Altoona, were recently the guests of the latter's father, Veterinary Surgeon John Riter. Mr. Brown is employed in the "Maintainance of the Way" department of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Wm. Seebold, of Sunbury, is the guest of Edward O. Durst, having come to Centre county to do a little "deer" hunting. The young men became acquainted in Philadelphia, when both were employed by the Philadelphia Traction Company.

Rev. Dr. Lawrence Colfelt, pastor of the Oxford Presbyterian church, Philadelphia, and editor of the "Pennsylvania Hawkeye," was sued for libel by W. F. Diehl, associate Judge of Somerset county. The offense was a criticism of political nature.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Mingle and Mr. and Mrs. J. Will Conley, all of Bellefonte, came to Centre Hall Friday in the former's auto. It is a delightful ride from the county seat to the metropolis of Penns Valley, and one which autoists, and especially Mr. Mingle, frequently enjoy.

A. N. Finkle, of Spring Mills, was a caller Monday morning. Mr. Finkle is one of the three Finkle brothers engaged in lumbering, but each one doing business for himself. Mr. Finkle at present is cutting lumber on the Evans tract near Spring Mills, on which there is some fine timber.

Claude K. Stahl was promoted in the offices of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company recently. Of course, promotions are nothing unusual, but he was advanced over a dozen or more other clerks, and was the last to enter the services of the company, which indicates recognition of special fitness.

Thursday morning Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brooks, of Linden Hall, left for Clairton, where Mr. Brooks is employed in one of the large steel mills. He had been at that point since the beginning of September, and finding that he liked his work, concluded to locate there permanently. He is a son of W. S. Brooks, of Linden Hall.

The railroad from the Lewisburg and Tyrone road at Pleasant Gap to the Whiterock quarries is about completed and it will not be long before operations there will be in full swing. Two kilns are about completed and two more are well under way, while the walls of two more are up. It is expected that the battery of six kilns will be completed and in operation before severe winter weather sets in.

Miss Ida Haldeman, formerly of Bellefonte, but late of Tyrone, has just completed a course of training in the missionary training school at Nyack, N. Y., and will shortly sail for China to take up missionary work in that benighted land. Including Miss Haldeman, Tyrone claims the distinction of having three women missionaries in the field; the two others being Miss Florence Dayton, also in China, and Miss Fannie Buck in Central America.

The Bellefonte Turnpike Company greatly improved the road over Nittany Mountain during the past summer. The last improvement was the building of a guard rail almost the whole distance over the mountains and through the Gap. The frequency with which automobiles travel this particular road, led the company to construct the rail, this making the mountain road safe against accidents, so far as the pike company is concerned. The guard rail also adds beauty to the driveway.

BATTLE IN CRONSTADT

Soldiers and Sailors in Revolt and Fight.

THE STREETS RUN WITH BLOOD.

A Force of Uhlan Cavalry Sent From Peterhof Join the Rebellion—About 10,000 Troops Fighting the Mutinous Soldiers—Eight Officers Killed or Wounded—See Flames From Palace Windows.

Cronstadt, (By Cable).—During rioting among sailors and troops Wednesday night machine guns were employed against the mutinous sailors who had been joined by a battalion of artillerymen from the fortress and which raised the total number of mutineers to 3,000.

It is difficult to ascertain the number of casualties, but officers place the figures at 200. Many wounded persons are in hospitals. The sailors say their chief grievances are poor food and clothing and an insufficient amount of liberty from barracks.

Roughs joined in the pillage and started several fires, but the workmen did not participate in these acts. Many of the workmen and the civilian population have either fled or are trying to flee the city, and the docks are piled high with baggage and household effects.

The city is full of reinforcements from St. Petersburg, and others still are arriving. Order has been restored and there was no renewal of the trouble during the evening.

The fires are still glowing in the market and another group of buildings. The stores and houses are boarded up and troops are patrolling the streets.

Searchlights from warships and torpedo boats in the harbor are flashing across the waters in order to aid launches in their search for individual mutineers who are trying to escape to the mainland by boat. Though a majority of the mutineers have surrendered several hundred are still holding out in the eastern section of the town. They have thrown up barricades, but are surrounded and machine guns are posted at all the streets leading to their stronghold.

St. Petersburg (By Cable).—This city was in a furore of excitement all of Thursday and late into the night over the news of the mutiny at Cronstadt. Every one of the exaggerated reports of the affair received credence in many quarters, and half the inhabitants of the capital believed that the mutiny was successful; that the troops sent from here had joined in the revolt; that the entire garrison of St. Petersburg would follow suit and that the town of Cronstadt had been burned to the ground, together with the surrounding farms.

The place was represented as being in the hands of 8,000 sailors, who had murdered their officers, seized the arsenal and bombarded the Imperial palace at Peterhof, across the bay. Butchery was said to have prevailed in the streets all during the day and the rumors even went to the extent of saying that Father John of Cronstadt had left the bed on which he was supposed to be dying to lead the mutineers.

Many of these sensational reports were, of course, false, but sufficient details have been received to prove that about 3,000 sailors and a batallion of artillerists from one of the forts engaged in a mutiny, which was only put down by about 7,000 Cossacks and troops of the Imperial Guard hastily dispatched from St. Petersburg and from the garrison near Peterhof, and that machine guns had to be employed. Before the arrival of the troops the sailors, many of whom were drunk on liquor plundered from the spirit shops, had set fire to the market and to several groups of houses.

The Governor of Cronstadt telegraphed the General Staff at midnight that the mutiny had been crushed; that there was no likelihood of any renewal of the revolt; that reports to the effect that the members of the guard had joined the mutineers were false, and that there was no truth in the reports that the mutineers had seized the arsenal and the forts. The Governor in his telegram said that many of the mutinous sailors tried to escape in boats to the mainland, but that they were captured and were being brought back to Cronstadt. He gave no estimate of the casualties.

$100,000 GONE ASTRAY.

Special Delivery Messenger Misses Certificates to This Value.

Philadelphia, (Special).—Foreign certificates to the valûe of $100,000, consigned to the Tradesmen's National Bank, of this city, by special delivery from C. Schumacher & Co., New York, have been lost by a special delivery boy in the employ of the local postoffice. The package disappeared about 9.15 o'clock P. M., and no trace of it has been discovered. George Doherty, the messenger to whom the package was intrusted, has been suspended pending an investigation. The messenger discovered his loss after delivering two other letters on his route. One of the letters was addressed to a local hotel, and the boy says the bank's package was in his bag when he left the latter place, and on reaching the next address, two blocks distant, the package was missing. It is said the certificates are of value only to the bank.

Strike in Austria.

Vienna, (By Cable).—The strike on the state railroads is spreading and threatens to become general. About 10,000 employes are already affected and the engineers on all lines in Bohemia have decided to join in the strike. Several factories have been compelled to restrict or suspend their production owing to lack of coal.

Death of Bishop Davis.

Detroit, (Special).—Right Rev. Thos. F. Davies, Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Michigan, died of pneumonia at his home in this city. Bishop Davies was 74 years old and had been executive head of the Diocese of Michigan since 1889, when he came here from St. Peter's Church, Philadelphia. He is survived by his widow, two daughters, Mrs. Henry S. Haines and Miss Marian Davies, of Detroit, and a son, Rev. Thomas F. Davies, Jr., rector of All Saints' Church, Worcester, Mass.

TURNED A SOMERSAULT

The Terrific Force of Head-On Collision.

DISOBEDIENCE OF ORDERS CAUSE.

Five Trainmen Killed and a Number of Passengers Injured in a Wreck Near Wilkes-Barre—Passenger and Freight Trains Met at Sharp Turn and Collided Before Crew Could Jump.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., (Special).—In a headon collision on the Delaware, Lackawana and Western Railroad at Hunlocks Creek, 10 miles south of this city, five trainmen were killed, one fatally and one seriously injured, and eight passengers slightly hurt.

Engineer Frank Poole, of the Scranton passenger train, is fatally injured, and Christopher Beaver, of Scranton, conductor of the passenger train, is seriously hurt.

The wreck is evidently due to a disobedience of orders. A fast freight, southbound, instead of waiting on the siding at West Nanticoke for the northbound express to pass, dashed down the single track which runs between the foot of the mountains and the river, and at a sharp curve the two trains came in sight so suddenly that the engineers and firemen did not have time to jump. The passenger train was running about 50 miles an hour, the freight about 25 and the collision was so terrific that the heavy freight engine threw the lighter passenger engine in a somersault backward over its own tender. It fell on the express car and the boiler exploded, destroying both engines, wrecking the express and the baggage cars and destroying the telephone and telegraph wires which were near the tracks. At the same time several freight cars piled upon and around the wrecked engine.

It was in this mass of wreckage that, either by the explosion or by force of the collision, all the trainmen who were killed met their death. Back of the express and the baggage cars of the passenger train were a smoker and two day coaches and although these were well filled the express and baggage coaches were so effective as buffers that the passengers suffered no greater injuries than a few cuts and bruises from being thrown forward on their seats. Eight had wounds which required a little dressing, but were all able to go to their homes unaided.

The passengers and the uninjured trainmen got the dead and injured out of the wreck before their bodies were reached by the flames, and they were aided by farmers living near until a relief train with physicians arrived.

CONFESSES TO LAND FRAUDS.

Attorney Lambert Makes a Clean Breast of It.

Omaha, Neb., (Special).—At last the government attorneys are behind the scenes in the great Western land grabs, and have secured a confession from one who was deep in the schemes whereby millions of acres of public lands have been stolen. The coming session of the federal grand jury bids fair to return hundreds of indictments against cattlemen and old soldiers who committed perjury in carrying out the schemes of the gang.

Attorney Frank E. Lambert, who was brought back from Oregon last week on a charge of subordination of perjury, in connection with the land frauds, has made a clean breast of the scheme, acknowledging that he acted as go-between for the cattlemen and old soldiers, and has agreed to go before the grand jury and tell all he knows.

According to the story told by Lambert he acted as agent for the cattle kings for the purpose of securing soldiers' homesteads and entries. He avers that he did a wholesale business and received $50 for each filing that he procured.

The soldiers took the lands with the understanding that they were to be relinquished to the cattlemen, thereby perjuring themselves. Many thousands of acres were relinquished in this way.

The soldiers implicated are scattered over Nebraska and Iowa, with a few in Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri and other central states and quite a few are in government homes for soldiers in the different states. The federal grand jury convenes next week and much of its time will be devoted to Lambert's disclosures.

NEW YORK AS SEEN DAY BY DAY.

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.

A general alarm has been sent out by the police for John W. Tisdale, well-known throughout the South and West as a mining promoter and stock broker. Mr. Tisdale but recently returned from Georgia and was stopping with his wife at the Hotel Seville. On Monday afternoon he told his wife that he was going out for a walk, and since then nothing has been heard of him. It had been the missing man's intention to go to Boston on Tuesday to attend a meeting of the Alaska Snitisham Gold Mining Company, of which he is president. Mrs. Tisdale and her son are of the opinion that Mr. Tisdale has met with foul play, as he was in the habit of carrying large sums of money, besides wearing valuable jewelry at all times.

Walter Decker, a towerman employed by the West Shore Railroad, killed his wife and himself in their home, 224 Boulevard, Union Hill, after a debauch. His wife asked him about his money. He said he had not drawn it, but would give her an order. A moment later Decker pressed a revolver against her ear and fired. She fell dead. A neighbor broke into the room only to see Decker point the pistol at his head and fire. He was removed to the Union Hill Hospital, where he died two hours later.

Detective William O'Brien had the dizziest chase of his career, when he shot down four floors with an alleged forger, who forced him to jump 15 feet out of a first-story window. The prisoner is Frank Gundler, of 158 East One Hundred and Thirteenth Street, who was wanted on the complaint of Charles Thorne of 1490 First Avenue. He was just entering the dumb-waiter when O'Brien forced his way in. The detective took a flying leap and landed on his quarry and both shot to the bottom, four floors below. O'Brien, although somewhat dazed, succeeded in landing his man.

Miss Helen Fargo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Congdon Fargo, was married to Nathaniel Ford Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hobart Moore of Chicago, in the Church of St. Thomas by Rev. "Is that your telephone number?" At this Sheehan stepped up to the desk and said: "Your Honor, the value of the purse hasn't anything to do with the case. As a magistrate, it is your business to try your cases in a business-like way. You have no right to ask such questions as you have of my wife." "You scoundrel!" shouted the magistrate. "I won't have any man talk to me like that. Put him out! Put him out!" Shehan was hustled into the hallway, but says he is not through with Magistrate Pool, and will complain to the Board of Magistrates.

IT MUST BE UNIVERSAL

No Compromise on Suffrage Seems to Satisfy the Russians.

ANARCHY'S TRAIL OF BLOOD.

Riots and Massacres Renewed in the Interior of the Empire—Tartars and Russians Fighting in the Caucasus and the Armenians Joining in the Barbarism—Terrible Scenes in Bessarabia.

St. Petersburg, (By Cable).—Premier Witte is confronted by demands for universal suffrage from the press and the people. It is daily becoming more evident that he cannot form a stable government or extinguish the fires of revolution without satisfying to the fullest measure the people's demands.

The army and the police in the interior cities and provinces cannot be depended upon. Lack of proper organization, and leadership increases the spirit of anarchy.

Prince Lvoff explained that the deputation of the Moscow constitutionalist-democratic group, of which he is a member, which called on Count Witte, demanding the convocation of a constituent convention, believed that such a course was the only solution of the present situation.

He added:

"Count Witte asked for our support, and told us that our views more nearly corresponded with his than any other group. But the support of no party can now stem the tide or affect the final development of the great national drama. Autocracy has abdicated in words, but cannot stop half way. A constituent assembly, elected by universal direct suffrage, must formulate guarantees for the liberties promised in the manifesto. It is better for the government to realize this immediately than to travel the painful path over which the people will drag it.

"Count Witte told us that universal suffrage was also his final aim, but he disagreed with the methods we proposed and said that amid the present excitement, which daily was leading to bloody collision between different classes of the population, he did not consider it possible for the government to take the responsibility of establishing universal suffrage—that step must be taken by the National Assembly itself.

The news from the interior shows that there has been little or no improvement in the situation. In some places disorders have recommenced with redoubled fury. The horribly story of massacre at Odessa is not fully known here. In the Caucasus the Tartars and Russians are cutting each other's throats and the Armenians are giving themselves up to pillage and incendiarism.

From Bachmut, Bessarabia, comes an entirely new revolting tale. A three-day attack on the Jews began Thursday with every indication of police organization. Jewish students were beaten, the Jewish stores in the markets were sacked during the day, and during the night the plunder of residences began.

Troops arrived on the scene, but the following day the work of pilage was resumed before the eyes of the soldiers and police.

The prayers of the hunted Jews for mercy were unavailing. Toward noon the torch was applied to stores and houses. The police would not permit the Jews to fight the fire and the troops were withdrawn. Then the pillage began afresh.

AVERAGED 17.92 KNOTS.

The West Virginia's Speed Was Cut Down By Atlantic Storm.

Washington, (Special).—The armored cruiser West Virginia, flagship of Admiral Brownson's squadron, made the run from South Pass, at the mouth of the Mississippi River, to Cape Henry, Virginia, when she brought President Roosevelt home from his Southern trip, at an average speed of 17.92 knots an hour. But for the storm encountered off the Carolina coast the average would have been better.

The big cruiser was being driven through the Gulf Stream at a speed of 18 knots when the wind registered 52 miles at Cape Hatteras, and it became necessary to slow down. It was demonstrated to President Roosevelt that while the West Virginia was plowing through the great waves kicked up by the gale it would have been possible to have fought the broadside and stern guns. An officer who was aboard said that by slowing down to a knot speed the bow guns could have been fought as well.

TO DISPOSE OF SMOOT CASE.

Senate Committee to Take It Up Early in Session.

Washington, D. C., (Special).—Senator Burrows, of Michigan, chairman of the Committee on Privileges and Elections, who has arrived in Washington for the coming session of Congress, said that he expected to have the case of Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, disposed of before the coming term ends.

Senator Smoot's seat is being contested on the ground that he is a member of the Mormon hierarchy. A great mass of testimony was taken at the last session of Congress, and it was generally understood that each side had completed its case. Senator Burrows said that if it is desired to present further testimony the committee is willing to hear it. The committee will consider the case immediately after the reorganization of the Senate committees incident to the meeting of the new Congress and the filling of the vacancy in the committee caused by the retirement of Senator McComas, of Maryland.

Only One Left of Four.

Dayton, O. (Special).—Jacob Haugh, his wife and his son Jesse were cremated in a fire which destroyed their cottage. Oliver Haugh, another son, was seriously burned. There is considerable mystery concerning the origin of the fire, which the coroner is investigating. The surviving son says that he and his brother Jesse were endeavoring to rescue their parents, who were portly persons, when Jesse was overcome by the smoke and flame and that he himself had difficulty in saving himself.

APPEALS TO MISS ROOSEVELT.

A Life Prisoner in Kansas Tried Through Her to Reach President.

Guthrie, O. T., (Special).—Ira N. Terrill, a life prisoner in the Noble County jail for the murder of Jack Embree, a homesteader with whom he was contesting for the title claim, has written to Miss Alice Roosevelt, asking her to intercede with her father to take up his application for a pardon. He says he is not guilty.

Terrill says that a letter written to the President by his daughter Cora was intercepted by Peyton Gordon, a member of the White House staff, who wrote her that such a letter could not reach the President.

Terrill was born in Illinois 51 years ago, and became a Populist in Kansas in 1885 while selling patent medicines. When Oklahoma was opened he joined the rush. He was a member of the first legislature during the reign of the deaf speaker, Artie Daniels. Once Daniels ignored Terrill's motion, whereupon Terrill drew two revolvers. Daniels put the motion and it was carried.

Terrill sought to remove the territorial capital from Guthrie for a fancied slight. Later he wrote the criminal code for the territories, under which he was the first man sentenced. He was sent to Kansas prison, but was returned as insane, though the Oklahoma authorities say he is merely stubborn. His appeals in the higher courts have failed. He conducts his own case in every proceeding, and the belief in Oklahoma is that the Kansans declared him insane just to get rid of him.

PREMIER WITTE'S CABINET.

Five Portfolios Are Filled By the Count.

St. Petersburg (By Cable).—The following appointments to the new Ministry are officially announced:

Ivan Shipoff, who was Count Witte's assistant in the Ministry of Finance and his associate at Portsmouth, Finance Minister.

M. Kutler, Assistant Minister of the Interior, as Minister of Agriculture.

M. Timiriazeff, Assistant Minister of Finance, as Minister of Commerce.

M. Nemechaieff, president of the Southeastern Railroad, as Minister of Communications.

M. Filossofoff, Comptroller of the Empire.

Secretary Taft on the Canal.

Panama, (By Cable).—The United States Secretary of War, Mr. Taft, accompanied by Colonel Edwards, chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, Lieutenant Colonel William M. Black and Lieut. Mark Brooke, examined the location for fortifications at the Pacific terminal of the canal. Regarding the fortification of an island in Panama Bay to protect the canal entrance, it was decided to do nothing until the canal is finished.

A Football Fatality.

San Jose, Cal., (Special).—Clarence Van Bokelen, a sophomore in the Santa Clara High School, died from injuries received on the football field. The cause of death was a fractured skull. Van Bokelen played left halfback in the game with San Jose High School on the Santa Clara College gridiron, and was making a brilliant run when he was tackled. He fell heavily and had to be carried off the field. Doctors found the skull fractured. Van Bokelen was 19 and of good habits.

Badly Hurt By Rooster.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., (Special).—Mrs. Salem White, who lives near Bennington Falls, went into her poultry yard recently and attempted to catch a hen. A vicious game rooster resented the intrusion and, fiying at Mrs. White, drove its spurs into the back of her hand. The hand swelled and blood poisoning has set in. She may die.

Panama Canal Engineers.

Washington (Special).—The Board of Consulting Engineers of the Isthmian Canal Commission has adjourned. In the meantime the sub-committee for the study of the lock-canal project will continue its sessions and have its report ready for consideration by the full board next week. The work of drawing up the final report for the full board will then begin, and it is not expected to consume much time.

To Arrest Officers.

Philadelphia, (Special).—Attachments were served upon the officers of 16 election precincts for failure to make returns of the election to the Prothonotary's office, as provided by law. The attachments were issued by Judge Biddle. In

THE OLD AUTOGRAPH ALBUM.

Among the relics of the past,
The links of Memory's clinging chain
That, with its meshes, binds me fast
To days that cannot come again.
There is no prize more precious than
This booklet: thoughtfully I scan
Its yellow pages, scribbled o'er
By many whom I knew of yore.
Here a refrain expressing love
Beneath the picture of a dove,
And there a half sarcastic quip,
All traced in childish penmanship.

"If you love me as I love you
No knife can cut our love in two."
'Neath that trite sentiment I see
A name once passing dear to me.
Across the past my memory flies—
I see a pair of laughing eyes,
I press a little hand that lay
Within my own that summer day
"No knife can cut our love in two."
Still, it was but an earthly strand,
And what a knife could never do
Was, as a higher power planned,
Accomplished by the reaper's hand.

O, treasured names! O, memory!
What were existence without thee?
For art thou not the magic key
With which we penetrate the seal
That locks away the musty past,
And, in our leisure moments, steal
Great solace from that storeroom vast?
Bereft of thee, how man would grope
Into the future's unknown scope,
As up some storm-swept, rocky slope,
The shipwrecked mariner doth crawl,
Before him dread uncertainty,
Behind, the cruel, yawning sea—
And darkness hanging over all.

One Good Turn Deserves Another.

By MINERVA S. HANDY.

Hundreds of years ago an elephant fell into a pit which some travellers had prepared for him. The pit was in a dense forest and the elephant knew that there was no hope for his release. He wept loudly and bemoaned his fate. His captors rejoiced at his lamentations, for they knew that the elephant would bring a good deal of money to them and were counting their gains while their unhappy captive was bewailing the fate which had overtaken him.

After listening to the moans of the elephant for an hour or so the hunters retired to the shade of a tropical tree, leaving one of their servants to guard the pit and to report to them when the elephant had ceased from his suffering.

The guard soon fell asleep and did not notice a priest, who, ever on some errand of mercy, had stopped to learn the cause of the elephant's distress. He tried to console the beast, who, however, was hopeless.

"Alas!" he said, "there is no comfort for me. I must stay here until I'm subdued and become the slave of man, or until I am dead of hunger and thirst."

"Is there no friend who can save you?" pleaded the good priest.

"None!" wailed the captive.

"Are you sure of that?" replied the priest. "Have you never done a good action to anyone? If so call him to you."

"All the services I have done are too small to be of any help to such a great body as I," declared the elephant.

"Maybe not," advised his helper. "Tell me one."

"Last year," said the elephant, "the prince of this province had captured the King of Rats and many of his subjects. He imprisoned them in earthen jars and was about to drown them when I came along. I broke all those jars so the rats ran away from their murderer.

"Another time a man caught the queen of the parrots in a gilded cage and hung it on a tree so high that none could reach it. I pulled the tree down and then broke the cage, with the result that the queen flew away to safety. She was grateful indeed, for my rescue, and declared if she ever could serve me I should call upon her. It is worse than useless, for so small a bird as a parrot—even though she is queen—can be of no use in releasing so enormous a creature as I from this deep and dreadful pit."

Just then a scream of a parrot sounded from a neighboring tree. The elephant lifted his ears, but the sound suggested nothing to him beyond the fact that it was strange that a parrot should scream so shrilly at the time he was talking about one. The priest had learned many things of which the elephant knew nothing at all and the shrill tone of the parrot at that special moment meant something more to him.

"Call that parrot," said he. "Tell him to notify his queen that her benefactor is in trouble—dire trouble." The elephant protested that it was of no use, but the priest insisted.

The parrot was summoned, the story told and in a little while the queen of the talking birds herself appeared to discuss with the imprisoned elephant how she could help to his release.

It is doubtful if the release would have ever been accomplished had not the priest himself planned the way. He suggested that the parrot take her message to the king of the rats, who, remembering how the elephant had saved his life, would do everything in his power to save his in return. The priest was right, as soon proved. The king sent the message all over his kingdom. By the next morning rats and mice to the number of several million assembled to obey the orders of their sovereign.

"March at once to where our good friend the elephant is imprisoned. Remember how he saved all our lives and dare any deed of valor to save his life."

When the army of rats had reached the pit they found that the queen of the parrots was there before them, and arrayed in all the trees about were millions of her feathered subjects. Never was there a more imposing array of color and beauty as that which met the eyes of the soberly clad rats, but they were not dazzled to the degree of losing their heads. Not a bit of it. They quietly broke ranks and while their king consulted with the queen of parrots, feasted their eyes on the gorgeous plumage of their fellow-soldiers. No danger of tiring of waiting. The parrots chattered and conversed in so interesting and scholarly a manner that the ignorant rats hung their heads for very shame.

The consulation was soon ended. The rats were given their orders, the parrots theirs. The guard awoke, but his attention was immediately attracted by the queen of the parrots who began to talk to him in the most engaging fashion. She kept flying away little by little, keeping up her fascinating talk. Before the guard realized it he was out of sight of the pit still fascinated by the parrot, which he determined he would catch and take back with him to the city where he would sell her for enough to buy his freedom.

No sooner was the guard safely out of sight than the rats began scratching at the edge of the pit. Though each one threw out but a small portion of earth at a time soon a large path sloped downward to where the elephant stood. At the same time the millions of parrots broke twigs from the trees above the pit and hurled them into it. The elephant not to be outdone by his faithful rescuers piled these twigs until they were high enough to enable him to reach the path. In a few hours he walked out of his prison and joined his companions in the jungle, filled with gratitude at his miraculous deliverance from death, or what was worse, captivity.—Washington Star.

FABULOUS RICHNESS.

It is Said to Be Possessed by Mexican Gold Mines.

B. F. Yoakum, chairman of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad company's executive committee, and his associates, who have been operating the famous Lluvia de Oro gold mines, situated in the Andres del Rio district, state of Chihuahua, Mexico, under lease for the past two years, have just concluded a deal for the purchase of the property. The Lluvia del Oro embraces a group of about twenty mines.

Those which are now being developed are said to be of fabulous richness. The lease carried with it the option to purchase the mines for the sum of $2,000,000, gold, of which a small amount was paid down in cash at the signing of the contract, and subsequently other payments were made, in part from the products of the mines themselves and in part by the purchasers.

At the time the option was signed the mines had been slightly developed, showing a twenty-foot face of ore for a depth of thirty feet. Work has been continuous and the development so rapid and rich that today the mines are classed as the largest and richest in Mexico.

At first, a three-stamp mill was employed, which ran a few months and produced $1000 gold per day. Then a twenty-stamp mill was erected, and produced in about a year bullion having a value of over $1,000,000 in gold. This production came from running levels and blocking out ore bodies, so that today the amount of ore in sight is enormous.

John Scullin of St. Louis and Harry E. Cary of New York came to Mexico a short time ago for the purpose of paying the balance due on the mines of about $1,500,000, gold. The purchase was made for account of the Lluvia del Oro Gold Mining company of Mexico, a corporation organized last year in the United States and having offices in the Hanover National Bank Building, New York City.

The capital stock of the company is $10,000,000, and the officers and directors are: Harry E. Cary, president and general manager; James Campbell, St. Louis, secretary and treasurer; B. F. Yoakum, St. Louis; John Scullin, St. Louis; Fred Edey, New York.

Work at the mines has been under the direction of A. J. Underwood as general superintendent. He has equipped the property with all modern appliances, and the enlargement of the twenty-stamp mill is being arranged for, together with the erection of a tramway.

Accommodating.

Former Ambassador Joseph H. Choate recently told a story of an Englishman and a Scotchman who were swapping fish tales while dining with a number of friends. The Briton related a tall story of a fish he had landed whose alleged measurements were such that every one present smiled, though none ventured to express doubt as to the truth of the account. The Scott, in his turn, related a yarn. He had, he averred, once caught a fish that he had been unable to pull in alone, managing to land it at last only with the aid of two friends. "It was a skate, and four or five feet long," declared the Scot, in the solemnest of tones. Silence followed this extraordinary statement, during which the Briton, offended, left the table. The host followed. After returning, he said to the Scotchman, "Sir, you have insulted my friend. You must apologize."

"I did na insult him," said the Scot.

"Yes, you did," indignantly responded the host, "with that confounded story of a skate four or five feet long."

"Weel," finally said the offender, slowly, and with the air of one making a great concession, "tell him if he will take a few feet off his fish I will see what I can do with mine."—Harper's Weekly.

W. R. McCormick, a farmer near Orion, has a wonder of its kind on his farm in the shape of a gigantic sunflower plant.

Washing Blouses.

Blouses should be washed in the ordinary way, but will be found a little more difficult to iron. Place the blouse on the ironing-board and lay the sleeves folded from the seam, iron on the side nearest the seam, then fold over the middle and iron that, then the other part, till the seam is reached again.

Nuts Healthy.

A dietary of fruits and nuts has been tested in various experiments at the University of California. These experiments have demonstrated that both fruits and nuts furnish the body with energy, while the nuts yield some fattening material also. The cost of a diet exclusively of fruits and nuts varied from 18 to 46 cents a day for each person, which will compare favorably with the cost of an ordinary mixed diet. One student gradually changed from a mixed diet to fruits and nuts without apparent loss of strength or health.

Washing a Counterpane.

Rub it well with soap and put it over night in a tub of lukewarm water. The next morning wash it out of the water it was soaked in. Then wring out and wash in some clean soapsuds, after which wash it through a second suds warmer than the first. Rinse it twice through plenty of cold water. The last rinse water should have a little blue in it. Wring the counterpane out, hang it in the sun to dry wrong side out. Take it in toward evening, and the next day hang it with the right side out. It must on no account be put away with the least dampness in it. Sometimes it takes three days to dry perfectly. In washing a counterpane never use soda.—Utica Observer.

Grapes and Appendicitis.

At this season millions of Americans eat grapes, seeds and pulp together, with little thought of appendicitis or any other danger. Thousands use them with care to reject the seeds for fear they may make trouble for the curious and apparently useless vermiform appendix. An unknown but surely large number deny themselves the wholesome and pleasant fruit of the vine because they have a more or less definite idea that risk to life and bodily vigor lies in its juicy globes.

Meanwhile, hundreds of millions of the people of Europe and Asia—the Italians, Spaniards, Portuguese, Greeks, French, Germans, Austrians, Hungarians, Turks and Persians—eat grapes to an extent uncommon in America. If they suffer as often from appendicitis as the most careful people of this country there are no records which indicate such conditions. The weight of evidence clearly acquits the grape seed.—Cleveland Leader.

Recipes.

Peaches with Sugar—Put them in a wire basket or colander and plunge them down into boiling water. Peel off the skins, remove the stones or not, as you wish, weigh the fruit and allow to each pound of fruit a quarter pound of sugar. Put the sugar in a kettle, and to each pound add a quart of water. Boil, skim and cool. Put the fruit in the jars and pour over the syrup; adjust the rubbers, lay on the lids and finish the same as small fruits.

Ripe Tomato Preserves—Take seven pounds of ripe, round, yellow tomatoes peeled, seven pounds of sugar and the juice of three lemons. Let these ingredients stand together over night. Drain off the syrup, boil it and skim well, then put in the tomatoes and boil gently 20 minutes. Take out fruit with skimmer and spread on dishes. Boil syrup down until it thickens, adding just before taking off the fire the lemon juice. Put fruit in jars and fill with hot syrup. When cold seal up.

Gages and Plums—Scald the gages and remove the skins and weigh. To each pound allow a half pound of sugar. Pack the gages neatly in pint jars and adjust the rubbers. Add to each pound of sugar a half pint of water. Stir until the sugar is dissolved, and pour the syrup into the jars. Lay the caps of the jars on loosely; do not fasten them. Arrange them in the boiler the same as for peaches and boil for 30 minutes after they begin to boil. Lift one jar at a time and fasten the lid without removing it.

Tomatoes—Pour boiling water over the tomatoes to loosen the skin. Peel, crush each tomato in the hand; this brings out the juice in a way that cannot be accomplished by slicing. When enough are prepared let them stand awhile and pour off the accumulated juice; press a plate on them and pour off the remainder of the juice. Let them boil up several times in the preserving kettle; skim and can. Stone jars, jugs and glass cans may be used. Some prefer to season slightly with salt before canning. Tighten the can covers before putting away, and wrap glass cans in paper to prevent fading. To serve tomatoes prepared in this way heat them sufficiently to melt butter. Thicken slightly with broken crackers, toast or stale bread.

MAKING THE RITUAL.

"Founder" O. H. Kelley Relates Some of His Early Experiences.

For over a year I had been studiously considering some plan of our organization; then I took pen and paper to put my ideas into tangible form. I commenced with the plan of having all the degree work done in a grove and having its surroundings practically agricultural from start to finish. I first obtained a large engraving showing a farmhouse surrounded by a grove of trees. This was hung on the wall above my writing table. Then, studying the picture, I placed in imagination the proposed officers, each under a vine covered arbor. The members I placed in groups under the shade of the trees. The glee club I had in costumes suitable for the several degrees which were to represent the four seasons; the orchestra to accompany the singers was to consist of two violins, a flute and violoncello. The space to be used for degree work was to occupy a little less than an acre.

To pass from the master to the other officers a nicely graveled walk was to be laid. Impress such a picture upon your minds if you can, only see it in the beauty it was seen by me as I studied it. You will be better able to comprehend the work as we now do it in our small halls and what the work is intended to represent. Then I drew a ground plan and placed the officers in position, then the route of the candidate with his or her guide, then began the work of preparing the dialogue. I had commenced in May, 1867, but it was February, 1868, before enough of the ritual was in shape to warrant staging it—that is, rehearsing with living actors. Then I found all my plans for outdoor work must be given up. We must adapt our work to halls or rooms indoors. Ten months after work was begun on the ritual I took it to the printer. Don't imagine all the work in that little book stands to my credit, for it is not all my composition. Anson Bartlett of Ohio did a great deal of work on the lectures. No great alterations have been made in the floor work or dialogues, but the lectures have been pruned and very much improved as the several editions have been published.—O. H. Kelley in Grange Bulletin.

BAN AGAINST DANCING.

Maine State Grange Issues an Edict to Subordinate Granges.

The question of dancing has troubled more than one grange in the United States. Evidently it has been pretty thoroughly discussed, pro and con, in Maine granges, or the executive committee of the state grange would not have found it necessary to issue the following edict to all subordinate granges in the Pine Tree State:

To the Officers and Members of the Subordinate Granges of Maine:

Whereas, By reason of continuous complaints to us and local dissensions that are aroused in consequence of the practice of many granges of dancing in connection with their grange meetings, resulting in corresponding decrease of interest in real grange work, the executive committee of the Maine state grange, by virtue of the authority vested in them, chapter 5, section 1, article 9 of the Digest, and in the interests of harmony and good fellowship, thereby prohibit dancing at or in connection with any and all grange meetings when the grange is opened in form. The master of each grange will be required to enforce this law.

From the wording of the above we infer that the prohibition is against dancing only when it is carried on while the grange is in session, inasmuch as it says "when the grange is opened in form." That it prohibits dancing in the grange hall after the grange has closed we do not understand. And, on the other hand, we do not see where it could be introduced when the grange is in session except during the lecturer's hour. The Lewiston Journal, which gives much attention to grange matters in Maine, remarks that this edict is "the most important transaction in connection with the grange for many a day. There can be no question that this matter of grange dancing has caused more trouble among the granges over our state than all other causes combined. Church people and others who are averse to that form of amusement have looked askance at the grange for this reason, and the matter has been a growing source of discontent. The state executive committee have now taken the bull by the horns, and they have done it well. No more timely action was ever taken, and from now on there will be an improvement among the granges all over the state. It will be noticed that this order applies to every grange in Maine."

Grange Day at New York State Fair.

The New York state fair devotes one day on the programme to the grange. A large tent is erected every year in which the Patrons gather. The addresses made this year on Sept. 13 were by Lieutenant Governor Linn Bruce of New York, who welcomed the grangers; Hon. E. B. Norris, Hon. F. A. Derthick and Hon. Aaron Jones, master of the national grange. The woman's work committee of the state grange held a meeting the same day in the woman's building on the fair grounds and presented a most pleasing musical and literary programme.

Eagle grange of Pennsylvania is the oldest grange in that state, having been organized in 1871. The organization fees were $55.

There is Money in Growing Ginseng

Prof. W. L. Howard of the Missouri State Agricultural College says: "I advise American farmers to cultivate Ginseng. Big profits may be realized. It is a hardy plant and is easily grown."—A recent bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania State Agricultural College in part says: "The supply of native Ginseng root is continually diminishing and the price per pound is correspondingly increasing, while the constant demand for the drug in China stands as a guarantee of a steady market for Ginseng in the future. The market for our cultivated root will exist as long as the Chinamen exist."—Consul General W. A. Rublee of Hong Kong says in the U. S. Consular reports: "The sale ot Ginseng root grown in America is very large here and the demand is so great that much more could be disposed of advantageously. The root is as indispensable to the 400,000,000 Chinese as is their rice."

Ginseng is a staple on the market the same as corn, wheat and cotton. The present market price varies from $5 to $8 per pound according to quality, while the cost of production does not exceed $1.50. There is room in an ordinary garden to grow several hundred dollars worth each year. The plant is hardy and thrives in all parts of the United States and Canada, except in arid regions. We are successful growers and can show you how to make money growing Ginseng. You can get a good start in the business for a small outlay, and soon have a comfortable income. We have several thousand choice roots for sale for fall delivery. The planting season begins in August and continues till the ground is frozen. Write us today for literature.

TERMS.—The terms of subscription to the Reporter are one dollar per year in advance.

ADVERTISEMENTS.—20 cents per line for three insertions, and 5 cents per line for each subsequent insertion. Other rates made known on application.

The figures opposite your name on label of paper indicate the date to which your subscription is paid. When no date is given the date implied is July, 1900: when no month is given the month implied is July—thus: "00" means July, 1900; "01", means July, 1901; "04" means that your subscription is paid in advance to July, 1904. Other months than July are indicated by abbreviations.

When you pay your subscription always examine your label, and when a notice appears that corrections have been made, compare and report immediately if you have not been given proper credit. No receipts for subscription will be sent by mail unless by special request. The change of date on label ought to be sufficient evidence. Money by mail is reasonably safe. There have been no losses to this date.

AMMON WALKER LOSES HAND.

While Feeding a Corn Shredder the Young Man Got His Hand in the Cylinder.

Ammon Walker had his left hand severed above the wrist by being caught in the cylinder of a corn shredder. He is an unmarried young man, and lives in Rebersburg, and for some time was traveling with a corn shredder. Wednesday morning he was feeding the machine while at the barn of George Weaver, of near Rebersburg, and in some unaccountable manner his hand was caught by the machinery with the above noted result. Dr. Bright and Dr. Musser were called to dress the wound.

Mr. Walker is the son of Jeremiah Walker, of Rebersburg, and is aged about thirty years.

The Stanley Show.

The Stanley Advertising Company, beginning Fridsy night, gave a show for four nights in Grange Arcadia. With the show they pushed the sale of a number of medicines. The show part was all that could be desired. The singing, dancing, wrestling and sparring were alike applauded by the audience.

The coon singing and imitating child-life by Miss Grace Stanley smacked of stage acting in the larger theatres. She is a girl of seventeen summers, and could occupy a role of more importance than that filled at present.

The watch was voted to Miss Margaret Jacobs. Misses Margaret Mitterling and Sarah Reish were seconds in the contest.

Douty's Moving Pictures.

Douty's moving pictures will be in Grange Arcadia, Wednesday evening, November 22. The apparatus is first class, and will show novel and up-to-date scenes. Among these will be war scenes on land and sea, Spanish bull fights, illustrated songs, and many comic illustrations.

Prof. Charles Crawford, the famous elocutionist and impersonator, will recite and sing songs. He is a marvel.

The admission is 10 and 20 cents, and the dates for this show in Penns Valley are:

Millheim, Thursday night, Nov. 16.
Madisonburg, Sat. night, Nov. 18.
Spring Mills, Tues. night, Nov. 21.
Centre Hall, Wed. night, Nov. 22.
Linden Hall, Thur. night, Nov. 23.

The Bradford Hunting Party.

The Bradford Hunting party are in the Seven Mountains taking their annual hunt for deer and bear. They have a good record, and there is little doubt but that they will come home well ladened with game. The party will stay for two weeks. Among the hunters belonging to this crew, reported to this office, are Messrs. George W., W. Frank, Clyde and Charles Bradford, C. C. Coble, D. Boon, J. C. Kuhn, Dr. James Hosterman, J. Frank Smith, Charles W. Slack, Wm. H. Homan, John Knarr, Bruce Runkle.

Teachers' Institute.

Elsewhere in this issue is given the names of the school teachers and school directors in Centre county.

Almost every school teacher in the county is in attendance at the institute in session this week, as are also many of the directors. The institute is said to be one of the most interesting and instructive held in years.

Bitten by a Dog.

Wednesday morning John Sweetwood was bitten on the leg by a tramp dog. Mr. Sweetwood was having sport with "Rico," the dog well known at the hotel, when the tramp dog pounced upon him, tearing a piece of cloth from his trowsers, and leaving well defined marks of his teeth on the calf of the man's leg.

The Weather.

The temperature has been remarkably low during the past two days. Monday night mercury fell to 12 degrees, and Tuesday night to seventeen degrees. Both Tuesday and Wednesday were cold and rough. No thaw.

INCIDENTS OF 1875.

Local Items Taken from the Centre Reporter of Interest to 1905 Readers.

[Note: The spelling of proper names is the same as found in the files of the Reporter.]

JUNE 24—George Durst, Sr., has exchanged his house and lots in Centre Hall and his farm on Nittany Mountain for the farm of J. Henry Keller, in Harris township. Mr. Keller intends coming to town next spring.

The carriage manufacturing establishment of Alexander Shannon, at Lena, Illinois, has built during the past year over one hundred buggies, besides other vehicles.

The corner stone of the Methodist church was laid last Sunday. Rev. Miller, of the Bellefonte Methodist church, delivered the sermon. These services were conducted in Witmer's woods, where a stand and seats were erected for the occasion. After the ceremony in the woods, the ministers and people went to the site of the church and formally laid the stone. The attendance on this occasion was quite large.

JULY 15—Prof. W. C. Heinle has been chosen principal of the Bellefonte schools. Salary $120.

A. J. Reesman has been appointed postmaster at Centre Hall, vice C. F. Herlacher, resigned.

Rev. D. M. Wolf, who held a professorship in Franklin and Marshall College, at Lancaster, has resigned, and will take charge of the Penn Hall Academy.

The corner stone of the Reformed chapel to be erected at Adam Stover's, in the east end of Brush Valley, will be laid August 10th.

Rev. W. E. Fischer, of Somerset county, and a recent graduate of Pennsylvania College, has accepted a call from the Centre Hall Lutheran church.

JULY 22—The Centre County Normal Institute commences at Milesburg, July 27.

Wm. J. Thompson has been appointed postmaster at Potters Mills, in the place of Wm. Allison.

JULY 29—Jacob Solt's house, on Church street, is up.

George Spangler and William Colyer, across the Valley, recently killed a bear weighing 240 pounds.

The stable of C. F. Herlacher was destroyed by fire Friday night of last week. One horse was fearfully burned, having remained in the stable until the halter strap burned off, and when thus released he made a dash for liberty. The stable undoubtedly was set on fire on the inside by some villain. A reward of $500 was offered for the apprehension of the fire bug.

Clement Edmonds, teacher of the German school at Aaronsburg, will give a German entertainment.

AUGUST 5—Francis Fleisher, of Berrien Springs, Michigan, writes that his strawberry crop this year amounted to 117 bushels.

AUGUST 12—Old Fort Lodge, F. A. M., No. 537, will be instituted August 19. The lodge room is on the second floor of the drug store building, and is also occupied by the Odd Fellows.

An application for tavern license was made by John Gorman, of Mifflin county. The site for the new hotel is along the Lewisburg and Tyrone railroad, on the north side of Penn's Creek, a point of Mifflin county extending to the railroad line. The location referred to is in the vicinity of "Rapid" or "Roush" run, which empties into Penns Creek.

Heavy rains quickly raised Penns Creek in the vicinity of Spring Mills, and several bridges were carried away and other damage done. Several pigs belonging to William Alexander, of Spring Mills, were drowned, and the carcasses were carried to the wheelwork of Fisher's Mill, where they were found the next day.

Married—June 10, Col. James T. Stuart and Miss Emma E. Hunter, both of Boalsburg . . . June 8, W. M. Cramer, of Aaronsburg, and Miss Elizabeth A. Cooper, of Hartleton. . . . June 20, George W. Hosterman and Miss Kate Scholl, both of near Wolf's Store . . . July 4, John Hank and Miss Mary Gingerich, both of near Madisonburg.

Not only the legislature but the governor has shown to be rotten to the core. As much may be expected from the former as from the latter. The legislature passed the bills, but they could become operative only after they received the governor's signature. It will be one of the greatest political summersaults ever witnessed to see a corrupt legislature and a corrupt governor enact honest legislation. The extra session is calculated to cover the handwriting on the wall seen the first Tuesday in this month.

The governor possibly called the extra session with good intent, but no one will believe that he purposed calling it until the result of the election was announced. It would be to the governor's credit to admit that he is bending to the popular will instead of insisting that the calling of the extra session was his original intention.

SHOT HIS SWEETHEART'S BROTHER

James Alexander Fastened a Bullet Back of the Ear of James Arnold.

A shooting affray occurred near Milroy Sunday morning that terminated luckily, and left the victim in a condition to tell his own story.

James Alexander and James Arnold, both of Milroy, and both aged about seventeen years, became bad friends some time ago. The former was attentive to the latter's sister, which was objected to by Arnold, but kindly received by the young girl. Arnold, it is said, on a number of occasions had words with Alexander, and forbade him to continue his attentions to the young lady. Lover like, young Alexander paid no heed to Arnold's objections, so long as Miss Arnold was willing to share his company.

Sunday morning Alexander accompanied the Arnold sisters home from Sabbath-school. The word was carried to young Arnold, who followed the trio and soon overtook them.

There were hot words and finally Alexander drew a revolver, first firing in the air. Arnold was very brave, and apparently had no fear of the weapon in the hands of his sister's lover, and continued his threats, and contrary to Alexander's command, came closer to his hated foe, whereupon Alexander fired a second shot, the ball entering the side of Arnold's cheek and lodged back of the ear.

There was considerable excitement for a time, and after the witnesses had regained their senses, young Arnold was hustled to a place of safety, and Dr. Kohler summoned.

In the meantime Alexander disappeared, but later was placed under arrest, and was released under bail. A hearing was given Wednesday, the result of which has not been learned.

Arnold was not dangerously injured. Monday he walked to the Doctor's office and had the wound redressed.

Alexander is a son of Amos G. Alexander, of Milroy, formerly a resident of Egg Hill, near Potters Mills.

LOCALS.

Ex-Sheriff and Mrs. Spangler were visiting friends in Snyder county.

Henry Keiser, aged ninety-seven years, the oldest resident of Snyder county, died at Selinsgrove, Tuesday.

Miss Anna Wilkinson, of Potters Mills, will go to Chicago Friday to remain for the winter with her sister, Mrs. H. B. Spangler.

John Hosterman, assistant principal of the Bellefonte schools, had the good fortune Saturday to kill a wild turkey at McBride's Gap, Nittany Mountain.

Miss Anna Forringer, who for several years has been in Northumberland, is spending a short time with her mother, Mrs. Emma Forringer, at Colyer.

The deer that escapes being killed before December 1st, ought to be given a medal guaranteeing his life against the hunter for a period of five years, and then to be shot at only with a muzzle loading, single barrel gun.

Rev. N. J. Dubbs and family, of Centerville, returned to their home after spending several weeks with friends in Penns Valley. While in Centre Hall they were the guests of Mrs. Rebecca Floray.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Dale, of near Lemont, are attending the sessions of the National Grange, at Atlantic City, which convened Wednesday. Mrs. Dale holds the office of Flora in the State Grange, and is much interested in Grange work. Before returning home they will visit Mrs. Dale's parents in Philadelphia.

Messrs. James Leitzell, Jr., of Spring Mills, and Wm. Rote, of Coburn, have been preparing walnut logs for shipment at Centre Hall, during the past few days. R. D. Killian, the buyer and shipper, expects to send a car load of walnut from Centre Hall station in the near future. Mr. Leitzell thinks buying walnut logs is like fishing, every time you go through the stream you are likely to make a catch, no matter who fished ahead.

Politics and Humor.

In the world of politics the man who would obtain political preferment must be serious. No man who cultivates humor to the exclusion of his other gifts can hope to attain to the highest places in the political arena. The American citizen reserves the inalienable right to vote for whom he wills, and the serious man who suppresses his sense of humor rather than the man who cultivates it is honored with his preference. —Senator Chauncey M. Depew.

A FAMOUS CHARGER.

The Story of Marengo, Napoleon's Last War Horse.

Napoleon helped himself to the creature when he encountered the mamelukes on the banks of the Nile in 1798. Superb as were the horses of these "knights of the desert," the white charger with the "great black eyes, wide nostrils, clean limbs and a brave heart," as Ibrahim the bey described him, was the most splendid of them all. He was a small horse, only just over fourteen hands, faultless in shape and dauntless in courage. Napoleon rode him at the siege of Acre, at the battles of Marengo, Austerlitz, Jena and Wagram. He took him to Moscow in that fatal campaign against Russia and rode him at Borodino and on the Beresina river.

When disaster had come and Napoleon was banished to Elba, the favorite horse was not permitted to accompany him. "I had rather I had shot him than that King Louis should possess him," the fallen emperor said, and he laughed with grim satisfaction when an equerry reminded him that the Bourbon king was himself too unwieldy to ride Marengo or any other horse. Two years passed, and Napoleon was back in Paris. The turn of fortune's wheel had brought him to the top again; Louis was a fugitive, and the emperor was wildly acclaimed by the fickle populace, who but a few weeks before had shouted for the king.

Once more Marengo was led from his stable; once more the housings with the gilded bees were buckled on his shapely form. The horse, old in years and white as fresh flaked snow, was as full of courage as ever. His master's hand passed lovingly over his satin skin as Napoleon mounted him that fatal 18th of June when the troops were forming up on the fields which had been so fresh and green that morning and where the lark's sweet song was silenced by the first booming of the guns. The white charger carried the emperor as proudly as ever; the wide nostrils sniffed the battle clouds as they had often done before. A musket ball struck the creature's flanks, and the white skin and golden bees were stained with blood and dust.

Late in the afternoon Napoleon turned his horse's head from the field. The battle was fought and lost. Only Marengo's fleetness and tireless courage remained between him and captivity. Nobly the old horse responded to his call. Away through the trampled corn, across the broken ground, through the awful scenes of slaughter and the heaps of the dead and dying; away through the merciful darkness of the summer night; away toward Paris once again.

That was the last time Napoleon rode his favorite. Lord Petre found the poor beast, wounded and utterly worn out, at a roadside inn, where Napoleon had entered his carriage, leaving the horse behind. Marengo was brought to England, and eventually sold to General Angerstein of the grenadiers. His old age was passed at Angerstein's place in Norfolk, where the horse—to the last "beautiful as a picture"—attracted much notice. On his death the general presented one of the hoofs to his old comrades of the Guards brigade, and another belongs to General Angerstein's family, at Weeting Hall, Norfolk.—London Modern Society.

Still Unsatisfied.

"Goin' the whole way, mister?" inquired the passenger with the green necktie as he took out his snuffbox, preparatory to settling himself for a cross examination.

The man interrogated eyed him attentively, then replied:

"No. I get out at the third station. I am going to collect some money due to me for groceries supplied. You see, I am a wholesale grocer. The business was left to me by my father. I am married and have five children. The eldest is eleven years old. I am exactly twelve years and nine months married. I live in a semidetached house, rented at £40. My wife is fair and weighs twelve stone. She was a dairymaid before I married her, and has been vaccinated twice. I have £1,150 in the bank, and I was fourteen when I left school."

The man in the green necktie had a dissatisfied look as he inquired:

Reciprocity In Chickens.

Poultry and the home orchard often make an excellent combination. The poultry stir the ground considerably, fertilize it and take an interest in the solution of the insect problem. There is reciprocity. The fowls need sunshine, shade, a range, scratch bed, grass and grit; the trees need scratching and fertilizing. Poultry seem to be especially valuable in the plum orchard; no curculio playing possum escapes them. Which animal to use for pasturing the home sod orchard is mostly a question of expediency. Before you decide this, however, go over the whole subject again and see if it will not be better to till the orchard after all.—Garden Magazine.

The First Steel Skyscraper.

The first steel skeleton building ever erected was known as the Tower building and stood on lower Broadway, New York city. When the architect submitted the plans for it to the building department in 1888 the members of the department were so puzzled that they had to turn the whole matter over to a special board of expert examiners. For the first time in the world a building had been designed in which the entire weight of walls and floors was supported by the steel skeleton, and the building laws contained no provision for such a structure. But the experts accepted the plans, and the modern skyscraper was born.

Linden Hall.

Harry Shirk lost a large porker a few days ago. Several others have been sick.

Hunters are plenty. Henry Gingerich took a party to the mountains and Henry Reitz met a large party from Shamokin on Monday, who are camping at Laurel Run.

Lee Cole is spending this week with his sister, Mrs. Daniel Bohn.

Mrs. Benjamin Stamm lost a fine three year colt last week. The animal was cut on the barbed wire fence and bled to death.

Mrs. Zettle and children are spending a few days with her brother, George Erhart, on the Potter farm.

Arthur Kimport's little daughters came over from Bellefonte, Saturday, to spend institute vacation at their uncle's home. The Kimport family will move today (Thursday) from Spring street to their new home on Curtin street, Bellefonte.

Rev. Wench, presiding elder of the Evangelical church, held a meeting in the Rock Hill church, Friday evening.

Among the visitors at the Wieland home during the week were Mr. and Mrs. Foster Jodon, and Rev. Long and wife, of McKeesport.

Mrs. George M. Hall and daughter Virginia, of Huntingdon, were arrivals here Monday for an extended visit at Grandma Hess' beautiful home.

Reuben Tressler, of the new firm of Tressler, Beyer & Young, who recently purchased the large mill at Tyrone Forge, was here over Sunday. Monday he left for Muncy where he will purchase new machinery for their mill, which will be one of the most complete in central Pennsylvania.

Misses Ella Ross and Sadie Felding are attending Teachers' Institute.

Joseph Brooks and family moved to Clairton last week.

Miss Lizzie Gettig, of Braddock, spent several days among friends here, beginning of the week.

Dr. and Mrs. Kidder accompanied Mrs. Joseph Hettinger to Philadelphia, last week, where she will enter a hospital for treatment. Mrs. Kidder expects to remain in the city some time. The Doctor returned Monday.

That Extra Session.

The extra session of the legislature will cost the state at least $500,000. The salaries of the members, in both house and senate, for an extra session, no matter how short or long, is $500 each. To this must be added mileage —twenty cents per mile one way; clerk hire, etc., etc.

In addition to this, the extra session will give those having the contract to furnish the capitol an opportunity to break their contract, and thus add extra for every item furnished.

And all this expense because a corrupt governor is aiming to deceive the people into believing that the rottenest legislature that ever existed will, when in extra session, pass reform measures.

What nonsense.

Farmers, Attention!

Farmers, send me your beef hides, tallow and sheep pelts. I will pay the highest market price—Cash. Address J. L. WINEMAN, Lewisburg, Pa.

The Centre Berichter.

The Centre Berichter, a four column, four page paper, was established at Aaronsburg, August 14, 1827, by Adam Gentzel. The paper was printed in German. Later the plant was removed to Millheim, or rather a part of it, and became the Millheim Journal. The Centre Reporter also claims the Centre Berichter as the parent plant, and it and the Journal carry the same volume number—LXXVIII.

The Corn Crop.

The preliminary estimate of the corn crop, issued by the Federal Department of Agriculture, confirms previous unofficial calculations of the yield. The production is stated to have been 2,707,993,000 bushels, which is 240,000,000 bushels more than that of last year and the largest on record. The crop is also of much better quality than that of the previous year and will therefore be more productive of satisfactory results in consumption. The bountifulness of the corn crop this season promises to be an important factor in maintaining the prosperity of the country during the coming year.

Red Mill Sold.

The Red Mill was purchased by John S. Auman, of Beaver Springs, from G. M. Harter & Son. The price paid is said to be $6000. Mr. Auman, who last spring sold the Centre Hall Roller Mills to the Weber Brothers, has been operating a leased mill at Beaver Springs, and will not take possession of his new purchase until spring.

The Harters will move to the Stone Mill property, which they own.

The Red Mill is the survival of the fittest of three mills on the South Side of Potter township, the others being the Thompson Mill, at Potters Mills, and the Stone Mill. Both these mills met their doom by fire, at a time when business at their respective stands was at a low ebb. The Red Mill was always well supplied with machinery, and secured the bulk of the trade. Under the Harters the Red Mill was brought up to a first class mill, and has thus been maintained by them.

DEATHS.

LOTT R. EVANS.

From Orangeville Courier.

Lott R. Evans died at the home of his son, Thomas, in Orangeville, Illinois, November 3, 1905, aged eighty-three years, eleven months.

Mr. Evans was a resident of Gregg township, Centre county, Pa., and came west from near Beech.

In the year 1845, June 19, he was united by marriage to Miss Elizabeth Decker. To this union were added two sons and two daughters, one daughter dying in infancy. The other daughter, Mrs. William Royer, died about three years ago. In the year 1864 he enlisted in the army, serving to the close of the civil war. He was a plasterer by trade. In March 1875 he moved to this state, locating at Buena Vista, one year later removing to a farm midway between Buena Vista and McConnell. Here he resided until April 20, 1900, when his wife died. May 1, 1900, he broke up housekeeping and came to Orangeville, making his home with his son, T. M. Evans, until death. He leaves to mourn his departure two sons, T. M. Evans, of Orangeville, and Lott R. Evans, of Mott, North Dakota; one sister, Mrs. A. Benage, of White, South Dakota; one brother, Thomas Evans, of Monroe, Wis., nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren, and neighbors and friends.

Mr. Evans was a good neighbor and had many good traits of character. For nearly two years he was confined to his bed, a constant care to the family. He was patient through his long illness, never murmured nor complained, and fell asleep in death without a struggle. His remains were laid away by the side of his companion's in the Orangeville cemetery. Rev. J. Groff officiated at the funeral.

MRS. JACOB RICHARD.

Mrs. Mary Richard, the widow of Jacob Richard, died at her home at Buchannan, Michigan, recently. Mrs. Richard, who was the daughter of William Tobias, for many years lived in Centre Hall. She was also the sister of Angeline Tobias, now in the Danville Asylum.

The deceased is survived by two children, William T., of Barrien Springs, Michigan, and Mrs. Hulda Dillman, with whom the mother had her home.

GEORGE LONG.

At the age of seventy-nine years, George Long died at his home in Howard. He had been in unusually good health until about six months ago. Several weeks prior to his death, his right side became paralyzed, which caused his death.

LOCALS.

Richard Bagley killed a one hundred and fifty pound black bear near his home in Woodward township, Clinton county.

After working at the Burnham Mills for some time, Daniel Forringer, of Colyer, has secured work at Northumberland, and went to that place a few days ago.

The Jersey Shore Herald says that in that town building operations have been very active the past year, and the amount expended in new structures will reach $200,000.

Miss Roxanna R. Brisbin is visiting in Philipsburg, Altoona and other points. She is the district deputy of Centre county for the Rebekah lodge, and part of her trip will be devoted to work pertaining to that office.

Mrs. Homer Crawford, of Coopertown, is visiting her uncle, Capt. G. M. Boal. Mrs. Crawford is returning from Richmond, where her husband attended the session of The Farmers Congress, he being a delegate.

Sheriff-elect J. Harris Mussina, of Clinton county, authorizes the announcement that W. Howard Klepper, of Lock Haven, will be his deputy sheriff. Mr. Klepper is a native of Boonville, and will represent the many Democrats in Sugar Valley.

"Bondage," by Edna Kenton, is the title of the complete novel which opens the December Smart Set. It is a powerful story of a newspaper woman who marries a young and prosperous lawyer, not for love, but for the sake of the home he can provide for her.

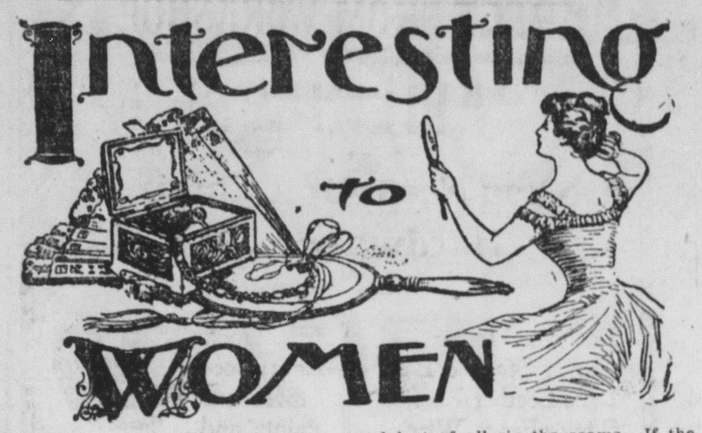
Interesting to WOMEN



Child Wit.

"There are two little girls in my family," said a fond father to me the other afternoon, "and they are about as mischievous as they make 'em. Marguerite is the elder and there is Louisa. Louisa was playing house this afternoon, and stepping up to her mother said: 'Good afternoon, Mrs. B——, how is your baby?' 'Quite well, thank you,' replied my wife, entering into the spirit of the game. 'But I have a little girl who makes so much noise that baby doesn't get a chance to sleep long,' this in the hope that it would point a moral. The youngster, quick as a wink, inquired: 'Who is she, mamma? Margy?' "—Albany Journal.

Youngest 'Real Daughter."

Brookline, Mass., boasts the youngest "real" daughter of the American Revolution. She is Mrs. Victoria Rockwell Blanchard and is only 64 years old. Mrss. Blanchard was the daughter of her father's third wife, and her father was 85 years old when she was born. Her father was Jeremiah Rockwell and her mother Abilene Stearns. Her father enlisted when he was only 19 at Lanesboro, Mass., and served at Bunker Hill, Dorchester Heights and Saratoga. He had 20 children, including the seven he adopted on his marriage to a widow, his second wife.

Mrs. Blanchard remembers her father well, as she was 11 when he died. She recalls the stories he used to tell her of the Revolution.

She is a member of Marcy Warren chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at Springfield, Mass. She has a brother, Cyrus S. Rockwell of East Dickinson, N. Y., who is the youngest living "real" son of the Revolution.—New York Tribune.

The Auto Girl.

The girl who automobiles, if she would preserve her skin, covers her face with a cold cream. She lays it on very thick, and over this she spreads a thick layer of face powder, using the very best she can buy. Often she does this so thoroughly that she looks as though she was whitewashed. Then she puts on her big automobile veil.

The result of protecting the skin by cream and powder is soon apparent. The cuticle is covered and the skin remains soft and nice. Dust cannot get into the pores, and wind cannot chap it. The skin is preserved, and the trip does the face no harm at all.

On her return from her trip, the woman who has protected her face in this way can remove all traces of powder with cold cream. She must cover her face with a thick layer of the best cream that can be made, and must let it stay on at least fifteen minutes. She then takes it off with a soft cloth, and there will remain nothing but the smooth, clear, pink skin.—Household Companion.

A Woman Maker of Violins.

To play the violin is the accomplishment of hundreds of young women, but few have constructed the beloved instrument from which such wonderful melody can be obtained. Miss Grace Barstow of San Jose, Cal., has the unique distinction of being the only woman violin maker in America, if not in the world, and, moreover, she is a noted performer on the instrumetns of her own making. Possessing a fitting environment and intelligent sympathy, when her desire to make a violin became known, Miss Barstow's family gave her every encouragement, and sent to Germany for the necessary woods. Altogether, six violins have been completed by her, each one a noted improvement on the preceding effort, until the last instrument is said by experts to possess a delightfully rich and brilliant tone. Miss Barstow has shown considerable inventive genius in constructing her violins, successfully experimenting with the native redwood as a base bar, and will use more of that wood in her next violin.—Philadelphia Press.

Making Over a Skirt.

The question of making over a black skirt was being discussed, and several opinions had been given. Finally, one of the group said: "I have my own way of approaching such a task as that. It is one I do not like, and perhaps because I do not like it always do it thoroughly. In the first place, I hang the skirt out on the line and give it a thorough beating, especially around the bottom, with a light cane. Then I brush it to get out all the dust. Even when this has been done the amount of sand and dust which falls out when the bottom binding is ripped off is not inconsiderable. I spread a sheet on the floor of the sitting room if I am working there, to catch this dust and any threads which may fall. First, I rip off the bottom binding, and the flounces or trimmings if there are any. Then I take off the band and the placket pieces, and last of all rip the seams. If the skirt is a silk one, after having brushed it thoroughly again, and picked out all the threads left by the ripping, I lay it on a clean board and sponge it, using a soft black rag dipped in equal parts of ammonia and strong black coffee, mixed with the ammonia hot. This is usually sufficient to take out any spots or stains. The silk is then partly dried, care being taken to wrinkle it as little as possible in the drying process. I have seen breadth of silk spoiled by being folded in the middle while damp so when my pieces are partly dried, I roll them up without folding, lay them in a clean towel and let them stand awhile."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Velvet and Velveteen Suits.

Velvet and velveteen suits and costumes abound on every hand. There is practically no use to which these most attractive of fabrics may not be put, from elaborate, dressy gowns in light evening tones, to those of simple design that are serviceable and useful as cloth. The simplest of fall street suits are being made up of the English fast dye velveteens. The texture is so beautiful that the difference between them and the silk velvets can hardly be detected, and from a point of service they are much more desirable than the silk velvets, as they do not crush and will wear splendidly. The fall shades, dahlia and prune, bronze and olive greens, royal and French blues, golden browns and stone and metal grays, all take on new beauty in the pale fabrics. The simplest models when made in these have a look of elegance.

Women particularly like the short-coated suit in velveteen, and, of course, for general utility wear the skirt must be short. Fashion is even favoring shorter skirts than have been worn.

Chiffon velvet gowns trimmed with colored gauzes and ribbons, interwoven with gold and silver tinsel are among the choicest products of the season for dressy day occasions. These tinsel gauzes give a touch of richness and elegance not suggested by more ordinary trimmings. It is possible now to find these gauzes interwoven with color, and in using them a splendid effect is attained when a tinsel gauze and one of color are used together. Thus an exquisite gown of blue chiffon velvet is trimmed with a gauze made from blue silk threads interwoven with silver, and also with a silver gauze, the two uniting to make a most effective and novel trimming.

In velvets of chiffon weights it is possible to use any design in which cloth or silk might be used. The quality of bulk and weight has been so perfectly eliminated from the chiffon velvets that there is no handicap in its use. This is also true of the chiffon velveteens.

Velvet gowns will be worn very much this winter with furs, for the beauty of the velvet embraces, as it were, the elegance of the fur.

At the theatre or for dressy day receptions and for afternoon calls a velvet or velveteen costume with fur coat will be the most approved of fashion's combinations. Sealskin is especially handsome with velvet, and beautiful models in this most expensive of furs are being made up with trimmings of lace and embroidery, to wear with velvet skirts which accord in color tone with the trimming on the fur coat. The hat will again repeat the color tone and thus a harmony exists throughout the toilet.—Washington Times.

Fashion Notes.

Elbow sleeves still stay with us.

The most diminutive jackets are worn.

Great use is made of contrasting materials.

Paris says the correct coat is hip length.

The shaded plume is not much in evidence.

Fancy waistcoats are among the prettiest things shown.

Shoes with white cloth tops buttoned with pearl buttons are fetching.

Coiffures are puffed out more at the side, giving the head a round shape.

Revers and collars of delicately embroidered silk come for the dressy coat.

The new cloth suits are beautifully braided with silk braid in fancy designs.

Bands of tulle or velvet are fastened with antique buckles or slides around the throat.

The most becoming ruches are made of pleated maline, sprinkled with a tiny silky dot. Those in rose pink are the loveliest.

Umbrella skirts made with a number of gores shaped almost to a point at the waist line are accepted models of the season.

A New Metal and Its Use

By Louis Bell.

A FEW weeks ago electrical engineers got wind of a new incandescent lamp hailing from Germany. Now, as a rule, no one even raises an eyebrow at such an announcement, for reputed improvements on incandescent lamps are an old story, but the newcomer was unusual in that the light-giving filament was a plain metallic wire drawn from tantalum, an element of which most people had not even heard the name.

Tantalum is an element which has been known for more than half a century as a constituent of various rather uncommon minerals, but nobody knew it for anything more than a black powder which could be obtained without great difficulty, but was of no use after one had it. It has turned out, however, that when melted in vacuo, to overcome its unpleasant trick of absorbing nitrogen when hot, this black powder became a little ingot of real metal, which possessed very remarkable properties. Metallic tantalum is a bluish-white substance, a little darker in color than platinum, and about three-quarters as heavy for the same bulk. It is, for a metal, an unusually bad conductor of electricity, and has an extremely high melting-point, both of these properties being invaluable for the purpose intended. Besides this, it can be hammered into sheets and rolled or drawn into fine wire quite easily.

Its melting point is so high that it can be pushed to vivid incandescence that makes an ordinary lamp look yellow. By this same token, the light is produced at a high efficiency, so that for the same energy used the tantalum filament gives nearly double the light of a carbon filament. The former, by the way, increases its electrical resistance as it gets hotter, while the latter has its highest resistance when cold. The result is a very curious difference of appearance when a tantalum and a carbon lamp are turned on together. The latter takes a perceptible time to reach full brilliancy, while the former jumps to whiteness more quickly than the eye can follow it.—Harper's Weekly.

Publicity The Cure for Evils of Corruption

By Cardinal Gibbons.

CORPORATION corruption is a fixed evil that we must reckon with just as long as the present condition of society exists in this country. Whenever there is an amalgamation of great capital, or a large collection of men interested in one money making concern, there is sure to be corruption. It is not a new story. It is a story as old as the world's history. The only reason that it comes so much to the fore at present is that the methods of its detection are daily growing stronger.

Corruption has always existed. Corruption, I am much afraid, will always exist as long as human nature yields to the attributes that lead to temptation.

The bright spot in the whole swamp of present moral degradation is the fact that the degradation is made known. Corruption cannot exist nowadays without being discovered after a while. The greater the evil the greater the possibility of remedy. And that possibility of remedy has now become such an assured fact that it counterbalances, almost, the evil which the present condition of money madness creates.

The fear, the dread of exposure is the counterbalancing element, and that fear, that dread, that horror of having a name once respected dragged down is due to the efforts of the metropolitan press.

It may not be good theology, it may not be good ethics, but it is certainly very good moral element that the fear, the dread of exposure in the public press keeps many a man sticking close to the path of rectitude who otherwise would stray off into the byway of personal graft.

Naval Surgery of The Japs

By Surgeon-General S. Suzuki, of the Imperial Japanese Navy.

MUCH of our success in the treatment of wounds I ascribe to the fact that before every engagement I ordered each member of the crew to bathe and put on perfectly clean underclothing. In a great many shot wounds fragments of clothing are carried into the body, and our insistence upon clean underclothing prevented many cases of blood poisoning among our wounded.

Our experience during the war proved that the conning tower of a warship is a most dangerous situation. Fragments of shell penetrate through the slits in the tower made to furnish the commanding officer a range of vision, and do great damage. Realizing this fact, Admiral Togo, in all the naval engagements, directed his fleet from the compass bridge of the Kigasa, without receiving at any time the slightest wound.

The vision of the men who fire the guns on a warship must necessarily be of the very best if their shots are to count. Before every engagement the surgeons in the Japanese fleets examined carefully the eyes of all the gunners. Any of them found with slight impairment of vision were treated, and if the impairment was too grave to yield to immediate treatment they were transferred to another station, and their places filled by men whose eyes were perfect.

During engagements every battery crew was supplied with water in which a 1 percent solution of boracic acid had been mixed, to wash out their eyes when they became affected by powder smoke or dust. We also issued to every man in the fleets, before going into action, cotton wool with which to plug his ears and thereby prevent rupture of the ear drums by the concussion of the gun fire.

Fifty Years of Agricultural Progress

By F. W. Hewes

THE farm gardens, "market gardens" and "truck gardens" of today are the producers of a multitude of "miscellaneous vegetables" almost unknown fifty years ago. In the census of 1890 the large increase in garden products was recognized, and a systematic count of their bulk and value was made. It is possible, therefore, to make a ten-year comparison of the increase of such products, and this records the remarkable increase of from 190 percent to 400 percent in the five several divisions of the country. The North Atlantic states had a well-developed industry in "garden products" before 1890, which accounts for its relatively low increase. However, 190 percent in ten years, while the population increased only a trifle over 20 percent, is amazing.

Could our great granddaddies, who thought tomatoes poisonous, and our greatgrandmothers, who grew them as ornamental plants in window pots, under the attractive name of "love apples," come back and realize that over 30,000,000 bushels of the pretty, poisonous vegetables are eaten as a common and healthful food, they would surely realize that time works wonderful changes. Another interesting statement is that the lettuce crop of the South has so increased that in the spring of this year North Carolina sent twenty carloads of that vegetable North in a single day.

Thirty-five years ago celery was a rarity even on hotel tables, and was used by few families, even of wealth. Today it is a common edible, occupying thousands of acres in Michigan, Ohio and New York. One firm has celery farms in Michigan, Florida and California, and because of the variety of the seasons it is engaged in shipping celery by the carload the whole year round. Twenty-two million bushels of radishes and 12,000,000 bushels of asparagus are the figures for the crops of these vegetables.—Harper's Weekly.

SNAKE TALES BY A SCIENTIST.

Curator Ditmars Tells of Snakes He and His Friends Have Met.

In the course of a lecture in The Bronx the other evening Curator Raymond L. Ditmars of the Bronx Park reptilian collection let slip a story not found in school text books. He was describing the vicious disposition of the diamond back.

Only one case of genuine domestication of this species had ever reached his ear. There was a man down in Florida who so enjoyed the intimacy of snakes—rattlesnakes above all—that he tamed a rattler and handled him quite freely.

When the rats began troubling the gentleman's chicken yard he used to let the snake out in the evening to destroy the pests. One night he left his reptilian playmate out all night, although the neighbors had threatened to destroy it if found at large.

The gentleman was awakened in the night by what sounded like a man's groans downstairs. With his slippers and candle, he sailed down to investigate and discovered a burglar half way over the window sill. The faithful rattler was coiled around one leg of the burglar and had his tail out of the window rattling for the police.

The little blacksnake is credited with prodigous powers in some rural communities. Mr. Ditmars never saw one longer than six or seven feet, but a farmer in the back country reports a specimen at least ten feet in length.

This snake raided a chicken yard all one summer, until one day a watch was set and the marauder was interrupted just as he had stowed away a full grown rooster. He scuttled off the way he had come, but in trying to crawl between two fence rails the bulk of the chicken in his stomach blocked all progress half way through.

Just then a hen strolled along the other side of the fence. Unable to resist the temptation, the snake engulfed her, too, and was unable to move either way.

When the farmer was asked for the skin of this monster it was not in evidence. He didn't pay much attention to such things, the rustic explained. Probably he had burned the carcass or the pigs had eaten it.

There is a pugnosed belligerent little reptile known as the hognosed adder that has a trick of playing 'possum when attacked. If it once gets started on the role the snake can be tied into knots and handled indiscriminately for an hour or more. The darkies of Florida believe that this reptile is a particular chum of the devil and endowed with a poisonous breath, although it is really quite harmless.

While snake hunting in the south a year or two ago, Mr. Ditmars plotted to win the admiration of his guides and the population by announcing that he had marvelous powers. He was endowed with the gift of destroying life by a sign.

The natives had never heard of this 'possum stunt of their dreaded adder, and when the performer formed them in a corcle around the specimen found in the fields they quaked in their boots; such as had boots. The magician advanced rapidly as if to attack the enclosed snake, pointed his finger to the sky, muttered to himself, and the adder obediently turned on its back.

It was timidly passed from hand to hand. The performer beamed with satisfaction. He would go one better. If the audience would form a larger circle he would restore life to the dead reptile.

The audience obeyed. The snake found all surroundings peaceable after a few minutes, and turned over, to slide away to parts unknown.

Mr. Ditmars faced around to accept the admiration of his guides, but the landscape was all still life. To the last ragged urchin his assistant snakers were gone, never to exhibit their faces in camp again.—New York Sun.

The Joke Was on "Jake."

During a visit in a Massachusetts town Jacob A. Riis was asked by a gaunt, funeral sort of a chap what he should say by way of introducing him to the assemblage. "Oh," replied Riis, in a spirit of levity, "say anything you like. Say I am the most distinguished man in the country. They generally do." Whereupon his serious-minded friend marched upon the stage and calmly announced that he did not know this man Riis, whom he was charged to introduce, and had never heard of him. "He tells," he went on with never a wink, "that he is the most distinguished citizen in the country. You can judge for yourselves when you have heard him."

The Kilkenny Cats.

To fight like the cats of Kilkenny relates to the Irish fable of two Kilkenny cats which fought so fiercely that only their tails were left. As a matter of fact, the fable is said to have originated in an actual episode. During the Irish rebellion of 1803 it was a custom of the Hessian soldiers stationed at Kilkenny to tie two cats together by their tails, hang them over a clothesline and then leave them to fight. Surprised one night at this brutal sport, a soldier drew his sword and by a cut across their tails set the cats free. The presence of the tails was explained by saying the two cats had fought till only their tails were left.—Detroit Tribune.

Sure Thing.

"Bragg tells me he got mixed up in a scrap yesterday."

"Did he get the best of it?"

"Of course; otherwise he wouldn't have said anything about it."

John B. Knox Home.

John B. Knox of Anniston, Ala., who has frequently of late been spoken of as a candidate for the United States senatorship, was in Birmingham yesterday on his way home from Europe where he has been for two months.

Mr. Knox is looking well and says he had a most enjoyable trip. On the subject of politics, he had nothing to say, or, at least, he said nothing. When the subject was mentioned, he looked at his watch and said:

"It is now 3:30 o'clock. The baseball game at West End park begins at 4. Gentlemen, I'll bid you good afternoon."

And with that, Mr. Knox left the lobby of the Hillman and made for the ball game.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

A Trite Reply.

A girl in Gaylord, Kan., was told by one of her admirers that, if she didn't marry him, he'd get a rope and hang himself right in front of her house. "Oh, please don't do it, dear," she said, "you know father doesn't want you hanging around here."

There is a fine opportunity in this vicinity to take orders for the celebrated White Bronze monuments, headstones, grave covers, etc., made by The Monumental Bronze Company, 392 Howard Ave., Bridgeport, Conn. It is a good, legitimate business, and they offer very liberal inducements. Someone should write them for the agency.

A Big Sounder.

One invention sometimes makes another necessary. A gramophone which can be heard a distance of three miles is the latest. Now, what is needed is a sound deadener with a three-mile range, to smother the noise of the gramophone.

Cures Rheumatism and Catarrh--Medicine Sent Free.

These two diseases are the result of an awful poisoned condition of the blood. If you have aching joints and back, shoulder blades, bone pains, crippled hands, legs or feet, swollen muscles, shifting, sharp, biting pains, and that tired, discouraged feeling of rheumatism, or the hawking, spitting, blurred eyesight, deafness, sick stomach, headache, noises in the head, mucous throat discharges, decaying teeth, bad breath, belching gas of catarrh, take Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) It kills the poison in the blood which causes these awful symptoms, giving a pure, healthy blood supply to the joints and mucous membranes, and makes a perfect cure of the worst rheumatism or foulest catarrh. Cures where all else fails. Blood Balm (B. B. B.) is composed of pure Botanic ingredients, good for weak kidneys. Improves the digestion, cures dyspepsia. A perfect tonic for old folks by giving them new, rich, pure blood. Thoroughly tested for thirty years. Druggists, $1 per large bottle, with complete directions for home cure. Sample free and prepaid by writing Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Describe trouble and special free medical advice sent in sealed letter.

It Looked Like a Drug Store.

The captain of one of the Boston harbor tugboats, while traveling toward Boston one night, was compelled to place a green man on watch, with instructions to call him if he saw anything in their course. The captain was aroused from his slumbers by the new man shouting, as he started for the deck.

"Well," replied the watcher, "it have a green light and a rid loight, and sure I think it's a drug shtore."

RAISED FROM A DEATH-BED.

Mr. Pitts, Once Pronounced Incurable, Has Been Well Three Years.

E. E. Pitts, 60 Hathaway St., Skowhegan, Me., says: "Seven years ago my back ached and I was so run down that I was laid up four months. I had night sweats and fainting spells and dropped to 90 pounds. The urine passed every few minutes with intense pain and looked like blood. Dropsy set in and the doctors decided I could not live. My wife got me using Doan's Kidney Pills, and as they helped me so I took heart, kept on and was cured so thoroughly that I've been well three years."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Joy of It.

"Here, my good man," she said one day last week to a man who had begged alms of her, "here is a nickel, and please to understand that I do not give this because I hope to be rewarded for my charity some day, but because it gives me pleasure to do so."

The burly beggar looked dubiously at the coin.

"Look 'ere, mum," he said. "In this 'ere wicked world we don't orften get the chance to enjoy ourselves. Why not make it a dime and 'ave a real good time?"

Beware of Ointments For Catarrh That Contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists; price, 75c. per bottle.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

No Occasion for Mincing Matters.

"Theodosia, I do not wish to say anything harsh or uncharitable of your uncle Geoffrey. I will not go so far as to charge him with penuriousness, but he certainly carries the idea of economy to an extreme. He hesitates to make the most trifling expenditure unless assured that it will redound ultimately to his own financial advantage. While not wishing to be unjust to him—I cannot refrain from expressing the opinion that he is almost too frugal, as it were, too—too cautious——"

"Mamma, what's the use of all that fine talk? You know as well as I do that he's a stingy, niggardly, mean, shabby, miserly, avaricious old tightwad!"

"Thank you, dear."—Chicago Tribune.

FROM GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD

Mothers Should Watch the Development of Their Daughters—Interesting Experiences of Misses Borman and Mills.

Every mother possesses information which is of vital interest to her young daughter.

Too often this is never imparted or is withheld until serious harm has resulted to the growing girl through her ignorance of nature's mysterious and wonderful laws and penalties.

Girls' over-sensitiveness and modesty often puzzle their mothers and baffle physicians, as they so often withhold their confidence from their mothers and conceal the symptoms which ought to be told to their physician at this critical period.

When a girl's thoughts become sluggish, with headache, dizziness or a disposition to sleep, pains in back or lower limbs, eyes dim, desire for solitude; when she is a mystery to herself and friends, her mother should come to her aid, and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will at this time prepare the system for the coming change, and start the menstrual period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities.

Hundreds of letters from young girls and from mothers, expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for them, have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., at Lynn, Mass.

Miss Mills has written the two following letters to Mrs. Pinkham, which will be read with interest:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (First Letter.)

"I am but fifteen years of age, am depressed, have dizzy spells, chills, headache and backache, and as I have heard that you can give helpful advice to girls in my condition, I am writing you."—Myrtle Mills, Oquawka, Ill.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (Second Letter.)

"It is with the feeling of utmost gratitude that I write to you to tell you what your valuable medicine has done for me. When I wrote you in regard to my condition I had consulted several doctors, but they failed to understand my case and I did not receive any benefit from their treatment. I followed your advice, and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now healthy and well, and all the distressing symptoms which I had at that time have disappeared."—Myrtle Mills, Oquawka, Ill.

Miss Matilda Borman writes Mrs. Pinkham as follows:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my monthlies were irregular and painful, and I always had such dreadful headaches.

"But since taking the Compound my headaches have entirely left me, my monthlies are regular, and I am getting strong and well. I am telling all my girl friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Matilda Borman, Farmington, Iowa.

If you know of any young girl who is sick and needs motherly advice, ask her to address Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and tell her every detail of her symptoms, and to keep nothing back. She will receive advice absolutely free, from a source that has no rival in the experience of woman's ills, and it will, if followed, put her on the right road to a strong, healthy and happy womanhood.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for the greatest number of cures of female ills of any medicine that the world has ever known. Why don't you try it?

THE KEYSTONE STATE

The Latest Pennsylvania News Told in Short Order.

Turkeys are reported plentiful in northern Berks and lower Schuylkill Counties and prevailing high prices, it is expected, will not be maintained. Weather this year has been ideal for raising fowl, the Spring being dry and warm. Dealers report the birds in fine condition and large flocks of twenty to forty common. Many owners are taking orders for delivery Thanksgiving Day at 16 to 18 cents per pound.

The School Principals' Club of Chester County met in annual session at West Chester, and after transacting other business, elected the following officers: President, Prof. J. Larany, of Phoenixville; vice-president, A. A. McCrone, West Grove; secretary, Miss Bertha Miller, West Chester; treasurer, George Hellver, Kennett Square.

R. S. Simmers, Pure Food Commissioner, brought suit at Pottsville against a half dozen local merchants for selling adulterated preserves, jellies and jams. Several weeks ago samples were bought and then analyzed by the State chemists. Gross impurities were found, it is charged. The merchants referred to will have the opportunity of paying fines or going to trial.

Rev. Martin Rutt, a bishop of the Mennonite Church, Mt. Joy, fell dead while stepping into his carriage at his home several miles west of Mt. Joy. He was going to administer the rite of baptism to Samuel Gingrich, a Florin baker, who is ill.

Edward Frothingham, brother of Arthur Frothingham, was killed on the Laurel Line, third rail system. He stepped on the wrong track in order to avoid a down train at Rocky Glen, a pleasure resort owned by the Frothinghams, and was struck by an up train. Death was instantaneous. He was a young man and unmarried.

The call for the big joint convention of the Mine Workers on December 14 in Shamokin, was issued from the headquarters of the the three districts in Scranton. It is signed by District Presidents Nicholls, Dettrey and Fahy. It is explicitly stated in the call that the object of the convention is to consider and take action concerning conditions of employment to become effective March 31, 1906. John Mitchell will preside over the sessions, which will continue for several days during which a list of demands will be prepared for submission to the operators. The occasion is regarded as most important and the greatest care is to be taken in selecting delegates.

A daring daylight hold-up occurred on a principal street at Shenandoah. A tall, fierce-looking man rushed out of an alleyway, confronted Mrs. Priscilla Bowman, of Mahanoy City, roughly grabbed the strap of her hand bag and tried to snatch it from her. The woman pluckily held on and was so painfully injured in the struggle that she fainted, but through it all retained her grasp on the bag. Her screams brought assistance but the man escaped.

Mrs. Elvira Wright, for many years a resident of Parkersburg, died Wednesday morning. She was the wife of J. Wilson Wright, formerly proprietor of the Right House. She was 70 years of age, and is survived by her husband, one son and two daughters.

Michael Callahan, of Mount Morris, N. Y., died at St. Joseph's Hospital, Lancaster, as a result of being squeezed between two cars on the Pennsylvania Railroad at Quarryville.

The John Mack Vitrified Brick plant in Pinegrove shut down for an indefinite period. About thirty men and boys are affected.

Coroner Gillars, of Pottsville, is investigating a case of child murder. There have been ten similar crimes in Schuylkill County in three years.

Henry K. Deisher, of Kutztown, will venture in the ginseng business. The root sells for $8 a pound.

Two guns and a pistol were stolen out of the mill of Sylvanus Oswald, of New Tripoli. The pistol was used during the Revolutionary War, and fabulous prices had been offered the owner for it.

The old Mennonite Church, near Steinsburg, was ransacked by burglars and the stoves that were used to warm the century-old building were stolen. They even took the pipe along. Some of the church members who live nearby have since added new Winchester rifles to their gunning cabinet.

Daniel Schott, of Pottstown, was the first victim of a gunning accident in the Schuylkill Valley. While hunting rabbits near Green Lane he was shot in the abdomen by another gunner and painfully wounded.

An incendiary fire destroyed the barn of George Heffley, Paxinos. Fifteen head of cattle were burned. Loss is $3,500. No insurance.

Charles Whary, of Shamokin, was blown down a mine breast by a gas explosion and fatally injured.

Arrested Both Bear and Owner.

Some little time ago an Italian gave the police trouble in a certain small provincial town, and when the police were armed with a warrant to effect his arrest, they were faced with a difficulty which only tact could overcome. The alien was traveling the country with a performing bear, which he declined to leave even for a few minutes, and so it was decided to persuade the man to go quietly to the station with his animal. Eventually he consented, and both keeper and bear were placed in the same cell, and next morning duly appeared in the dock together.

Believed to Be Rats' Hiding Place.

When the old-fashioned chimney on the Dwight Flint place at East Hampton, Conn., was torn down, the openings between the bricks and about the base of the chimney were found to be filled with corncobs, buttons and similar articles. A pair of very quaint old shoes were brought to light also. The work of stowing the things in the hiding place is believed to have been done by rats.

A Drying Rack.

"I should think that merry-go-round the boys have built in the back yard would make your head reel?"

"It doesn't; but on wash day it makes my clothes reel."

BOX OF WAFERS FREE—NO DRUGS—CURES BY ABSORPTION.

Cures Belching of Gas—Bad Breath and Bad Stomach — Short Breath—Bloating—Sour Eructations—Irregular Heart, Etc.

Take a Mull's Wafer any time of the day or night, and note the immediate good effect on your stomach. It absorbs the gas, disinfects the stomach, kills the poison germs and cures the disease. Catarrh of the head and throat, unwholesome food and overeating make bad stomachs. Scarcely any stomach is entirely free from taint of some kind. Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will make your stomach healthy by absorbing foul gases which arise from the undigested food and by re-enforcing the lining of the stomach, enabling it to thoroughly mix the food with the gastric juices. This cures stomach trouble, promotes digestion, sweetens the breath, stops belching and fermentation. Heart action becomes strong and regular through this process.

Discard drugs, as you know from experience they do not cure stomach trouble. Try a common-sense (Nature's) method that does cure. A soothing healing sensation results instantly.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will do this, and we want you to know it.

SPECIAL OFFER.—The regular price of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c. a box, but to introduce it to thousands of sufferers we will send two (2) boxes upon receipt of 75c. and this advertisement, or we will send you a sample free for this coupon.

The Key to Power.

Success in life is a delicate and difficult thing to define. To many—rightly or wrongly—it is synonymous with the accumulation of wealth, the standard of achievement and the end of all ambition worthy of human endeavor. But whatever may be our delineation of this subtle and somewhat fickle goddess, the possession of a substantial bank account is, for most persons—for all, in fact, who are not degenerates—a most laudable object of ambition. It has a psychological value all apart from its conventional, commercial value. It is veritably the key to power—not alone through what it buys, but through what it does—unlocking those secret sources of strength that transform the delinquent into the alert, the vacillating into the confident, kindling the embers of hope, and giving the race to the slow, the battle to the weak.—Business Men's Magazine.

Woman Bosses Gang of Workmen.

Having no children and disliking the idleness of hotel life, since her husband's business keeps him but a comparatively short time in any city, Mrs. William Partridge is pleased to assist him and by so doing has gained the sobriquet of "lady boss" from the men whose work she directs. The firm contracts to drill wells, lay sewers and construct water systems and Mrs. Partridge thoroughly enjoys the out-of-door life. When working through rock mountains she calmly directs the work of the laborers as they ram dynamite into the drilled holes and does all the work of a foreman as efficiently as any of the sterner sex. As she is a modest, well-dressed young woman there is no suspicion that Mrs. Partridge is other than an onlooker until a question is asked her or she gives an order to the seventy-five men, who grin and proudly declare they like to be "bossed" by a woman.

Pitiful Plight of Aged Man.

Because Oliver Powe, a builder of Ansonia, Conn., put all his property in his wife's name and she died childless he lost it all, according to the probate court's ruling, and is left penniless at the age of 72, too infirm to work. Believing that at his wife's death he would be her heir. Mr. Powe had his home and savings, $22,000 in all transferred to her, so she would have no trouble in getting his estate should he die first. Mrs. Powe died a year ago, her estate was promptly claimed by her relatives and the probate court sustained their claim. Mr. Powe has brought a suit for equitable relief.

FROM TEXAS.

Some Coffee Facts From the Lone Star State.

From a beautiful farm down in Texas, where gushing springs unite to form babbling brooks that wind their sparkling way through flowery meads comes a note of gratitude for delivery from the coffee habit.

"When my baby boy came to me five years ago I began to drink Postum Food Coffee, having a feeling that it would be better for him and me than the old kind of drug-laden coffee. I was not disappointed in it, for it enabled me, a small, delicate woman, to nurse a bouncing healthy baby 14 months.

"I have since continued the use of Postum, for I have grown fond of it and have discovered to my joy that it has entirely relieved me of a billious habit which used to prostrate me two or three times a year, causing much discomfort to my family and sufferer to myself.

"My brother-in-law was cured of chronic constipation by leaving off the old kind of coffee and using Postum. He has become even more fond of it than he was of the old coffee.

"In fact, the entire family, from the latest arrival (a 2-year-old, who always calls for his 'potie' first thing in the morning), up to the head of the house, think there is no drink so good or so wholesome as Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

CAPT GRAHAM'S CURE

Sores on Face and Back—Tried Many Doctors Without Success—Gives Thanks to Cuticura.

Captain W. S. Graham, 1321 Eoff St., Wheeling, W. Va., writing under date of June 14, '04, says: "I am so grateful I want to thank God that a friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment to me. I suffered for a long time with sores on my face and back. Some doctors said I had blood poison, and others that I had barbers' itch. None of them did me any good, but they all took my money. My friends tell me my skin now looks as clear as a baby's, and I tell them all that Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment did it."

Toes Shot Off.

By an accidental discharge of a gun, Daniel Norris, of Juniata, while hunting in the vicinity of State College, his former home, is minus his great toe.

The same fate befell Frank Patton, son of R. A. Patton, of Port Matilda, while out hunting pheasants in the neighborhood of Hensheytown.

Director's Compensation.

Two dollars a day is the sum school directors may draw from their local treasury for attending the School Directors County Convention, which by an act of the Legislature was given an official standing. The one thing to be remembered is that the directors are not obliged to take this fee. If they think that the sessions have bountifully rewarded them for their time, or, if they are liberal minded, the two dollars may be devoted to some special purpose.

A suggestion might be made here, that if these two dollars (twelve dollars for six directors) were expended for books, in a very few years each school in the county would have a library, and the taxpayer never discover it.

Letter to Thomas L. Moore.

Centre Hall, Pa.

Dear Sir: You are a teacher: here's one for your boys:

If the painting costs two or three times as much as the paint, and one paint goes twice as far as another, how much are those two paints worth?

If Devoe is worth $1.50 or $1.75 a gallon, how much is the other one worth?

How much is a gallon of paint worth anyhow?

The answer is: Depends on the paint.

The reason is: paint isn't always paint. There are true and false paint and short-measure.

How much is a short-measure gallon worth? How much is false paint worth? How much is Devoe worth?

There are millions a year in the answer to the last one.

Yours truly
F. W. DEVOE & Co.,

Keith's Theatre.

Marshall P. Wilder, the quaint story-teller, is the leading feature of the bill at Keith's Chestnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, this week, where he entertains in his usual way, with amusing incidents, generally making them personal, and his own diminutive size the butt of most of his jokes. He also recites several poems to music. Herbert Kelcey and Miss Effie Shannon, the dramatic stars, who are going out in "The Lightning Conductor," are again seen in their clever playlet, "The String of Pearls," while the Musical Cuttys, six in number, present one of the most refined and artistic musical novelties ever seen at this theatre. George Wilson, the bright musical star, renders several songs, and Staley and Birbeck give their familiar musical specialty with several rapid changes from a blacksmith shop to a drawing-room and back again. Kern's Mimic Dog is a novelty very much [illegible].

Harris Township.

Miss Bertha Hoover, of Clearfield, is visiting her parents.

Frank Kaup was home from Sunbury for a short visit to his parents.

Miss Bertha Tressler, of Pine Hall, spent a week with her aunt, Mrs. Sara Lohr.

Several hunting parties left here on Wednesday for Stone Creek, Bear Meadows.

A company of young people were entertained at the Boalsburg tavern, Friday evening.

The teachers and a number of other citizens are attending institute at Bellefonte this week.

Miss [illegible]ey Keller and Miss Mary Thompson, of Houserville, spent Sunday in Boalsburg.

Dr. Kidder and family and Mrs. Kidder's father, Silas Gibony, spent a short time in Philadelphia.

Miss Izora Rupp enjoyed a few weeks with relatives and associates at Huntingdon and Altoona.

At a baptismal service held in the Reformed church Sunday afternoon, four little girls were baptized: Dorothy Matilda Boal Lucas, Mary Rosella Ishler, Dorothy Eleanor Wieland and Carrie Ellen Markle.

Mrs. William Spiece, who spent several months in this her old home, departed last Wednesday for Chicago. She will spend some time at the latter place before going to her home in Columbus, Nebraska.

Miss Ella Rhone, who spent the summer months with her aunts, Misses Clara and Sara Keller, left here last week for Wilmington, Del., to visit her aunt, Mrs. Sophia Hall. From there she will go to New York for the winter, where she will be engaged at hospital work.

The saw mill at Shingletown Gap was destroyed by fire last Friday night. The origin of the fire is supposed to have been of an incendiary nature. The company owning the mill has directed the managers to commence rebuilding at once. About seven or eight thousand feet of lumber were also consumed by the flames.

The entertainment at the Walnut Grove schoolhouse Thursday evening was quite a success. The room was beautifully decorated with spruce and autumn leaves, and illuminated with Japanese lanterns. Miss Gertrude Wieland, teacher of the Boalsburg primary school, and Miss Fay Weber, one of the high school pupils, were the last to be spelled down. The proceeds will be used to purchase window blinds for the schoolroom.

Aaronsburg.

The Evangelicals are holding a protracted meeting at this place.

Mrs. Frank Burd has gone to Akron, O., to see her son Fred, who is seriously ill at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. Roush, of Penn Hall, are spending a few weeks with their daughter, Mrs. Annie Detwiler.

Charles Smull and family and Edward Smull and family, of Smuliton, spent Sunday with Jesse Werts.

Mrs. Rebecca Charles has gone to spend the winter with her sister, at Hublersburg.

Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Haffley returned their home after a few days visit to their son Henry, at Renovo.

Miss Flossie Stover returned home from a few days visit to her cousin, Ardrena Harman, at State College.

Mrs. A. Miles Arney and baby, of Bellefonte, were visiting Mrs. Arney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Gramley. Her sister Jennie accompanied them home Monday.

The Lutheran Congregation will hold communion services Sunday morning and evening. Services from Thursday evening until Sunday evening.

Held for Murder.

Edward Brewer, of Lock Haven, was committed to the Clinton county jail without bail on the charge of murdering Norman Porter, a boy who was engaged in Hallow'een sport when the shooting was done.

Chicken and Waffle Supper.

Progress Grange will give a Chicken and Waffle supper in Grange Arcadia Thanksgiving evening, beginning at 4:30 o'clock. The proceeds are for the benefit of the hall fund.

M. E. Church Dedicated.

The M. E. church erected at Mackeyville to take the place of the one destroyed by fire was dedicated free of debt Sunday. The edifice cost $2800.

Engraved Cards.

Orders for engraved cards, invitations, etc., taken at this office. The highest class work.

LOCALS.

Rev. A. A. Black, of Boalsburg, the popular Reformed minister, was in town Monday.

At McConnelsburg two hunters were fined fifty dollars each for using turkey callers while in the woods.

Mrs. Hiram Lee, of Lewistown, and Mrs. William O. Rearick, of Milroy, were guests of Penns Valley friends the other Sunday.

"Three saved by chewing gum" is the head over a news item. It seems that the three used chewing gum to plug a hole in their canoe. Then they were saved by not chewing it, after all.

For the Hospital.

The Centre Hall Hospital Aid Society invites all good people in Centre Hall and vicinity to join them in making a Thanksgiving offering to our county hospital. The hospital authorities appreciated very highly the donation of last fall and we hope to give them still more cause for gratitude this season. The following are some of the articles needed: Fruit of all kinds, vegetables, soap, old and new muslin, night clothes and dressing gowns, slippers, good literature, table linen and bedding.

Donations may be left at the Presbyterian manse or at Mr. Whiteman's, directly opposite, during the week preceding Thanksgiving.

MRS. SCHUYLER, Pres.
MISS BARTHOLOMEW, Sec.

Thanks for a Good Deed.

In behalf of the citizens of Centre Hall, we wish to express our sincere and heartfelt thanks to Mr. Samuel Bruss for the great liberality and public-spiritedness which prompted him to present to our borough a spring of pure water—known as the "Laurel Spring"—which will not only be appreciated by us of the present generation, but by all who come after us. In short, it will stand as a monument to his generosity, as long as our town shall last.

Long life, happiness and prosperity to Mr. Bruss, and may we have more men of his kind; may his shadow never grow less, as long as grass grows and water runs, is the sincere wish of his many friends and neighbors.

A CITIZEN.

E. K. Keller Sold His Farm.

The farm at Pleasant Gap, known as the John Sweeney farm, located at the crossroads, was sold by E. K. Keller to H. N. Keller. The former will build a house on a lot reserved for that purpose, the site being on the opposite side of the road from the farm buildings.

Sheriff's Office, Bellefonte, Pa., Nov. 1, 1905.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood.

If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Home of Swamp-Root.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghampton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Herb W. Edwards Injured.

Herb W. Edwards, of Des Moines, Iowa, got a fall on an icy walk last winter, spraining his wrist and bruising his knees. "The next day," he says, "they were so sore and stiff I was afraid I would have to stay in bed, but I rubbed them well with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and after a few applications all soreness had disappeared." For sale by C. W. Swartz, Tusseyville; F. A. Carson, Potters Mills.

Smith, the Photographer.

W. W. Smith, the Photographer, will be in Centre Hall Friday, November 17, from 8 to 2:30 o'clock.

REGISTER'S NOTICE.

The following accounts have been examined, passed and filed in the Register's office for the inspection of heirs and legatees, creditors and all others in anywise interested, and will be presented to the Orphan's Court of Centre county for confirmation on Wednesday, the 29th day of November, A. D., 1905:

The Exact Thing Required for Constipation

"As a certain purgative and stomach purifier Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets seem to be the exact thing required, strong enough for the most robust, yet mild enough and safe for children and without that terrible griping so common to most purgatives," say R. S. Webster & Co., Udora, Ontario, Canada. For sale by C. W. Swartz, Tusseyville; F. A. Carson, Potters Mills.

Bridge Company Builds Trolley Line.

The York Bridge Company secured permission from Council to build a trolley line on the streets of Selinsgrove. The same company has secured rights of way in Penn township. The corporation will shortly erect a bridge connecting Snyder county with Sunbury, over which structure the trolleys will pass into Northumberland county.

When You Have a Bad Cold

You want a remedy that will not only give quick relief but effect a permanent cure.

You want a remedy that will relieve the lungs and keep expectoration easy.

You want a remedy that will counteract any tendency toward pneumonia.

You want a remedy that is pleasant and safe to take.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy meets all of these requirements and for the speedy and permanent cure of bad colds stands without a peer. For sale by C. W. Swartz, Tusseyville; F. A. Carson, Potters Mills.

Wash-Easy contains neither lye nor acid.

No Poison in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

From Napier, New Zealand, Herald: Two years ago the Pharmacy Board of New South Wales, Australia, had an analysis made of all the cough medicines that were sold in that market. Out of the entire list they found only one that they declared was entirely free from all poisons. This exception was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, made by the Chamberlain Medicine Company, Des Moines, Iowa, U. S. A. The absence of all narcotics makes this remedy the safest and best that can be had; and it is with a feeling of security that any mother can give it to her little ones. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is especially recommended by its makers for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. This remedy is for sale by C. W. Swartz, Tusseyville; F. A. Carson, Potters Mills.
